ANOTHER WAY to view the eclipse is shown above. The image of the sun is projected through a hole in a piece of cardboard onto a piece of white cardboard. The viewer's back is kept to the sun. The great danger in looking at the eclipse without proper protection is that the retina, or screen of the eye, will be burned by infrared or heat rays from the sun. (AP Wirephoto)

Big Star, Known As Sun, To Be In Spotlight Today

NEW YORK (AP) — A star known as the sun really stars today.

Jet airplanes will chase the shadow it casts. Rockets and radio waves will poke up toward it. Hundreds of scientists will carry out special photograph and measurements. And perhaps millions of Americans will look up to see the sun become totally or partly eclipsed.

RARE EVENT

It's a rare enough event when the moon moves along in just the right path to cover the face of the blazing sun for observers on earth. The last total eclipse actually visible in the United States occurred June 30, 1954, and the next won't come until March 7, 1970.

(See Other Photo 2-A)

This is expected to be the most scientifically observed eclipse in history. The blink-out of the sun, brief as it is, provides precious opportunities to study phenomena of the sun, the space between sun and earth, and in the earth's high atmosphere itself. Some findings might be helpful in guarding future astronauts from dangerous radiation loosed by terrific storms on the sun.

The scientists will be concentrated largely within a narrow belt, averaging 60 miles wide in Japan, Alaska, Canada and Maine, the only land areas where the eclipse will be total.

The sun will rise eclipsed in Japan, and the path of totality will cover about 10,000 miles in two and three-quarter hours.

Totality, lasting 95 seconds, will occur in Sourdough, Alaska, at 10:20 a.m., Alaska Standard Time, and at 4:42 to 4:44 p.m. Eastern Standard Time in localities in Maine, lasting about a minute there.

For lucky observers in the total path, night will fall, with sunlight reduced to half the intensity of a full moon. Stars will become visible—and so may faint comets. They will see the sun's corona or outer atmosphere, in pearly white and pale yellow hues, and perhaps prominences or tongues of flame shooting from the sun's rim.

Everyone else in the United States will miss this full show—Hawaii is out altogether—but if the weather is kind they can see 99 to 30 per cent of the sun covered by the moon, depending upon their locations.

The full progress of the moon's covering and then retreating from the face of the sun lasts a couple of hours even, if, at maximum, only half or less of the sun is obscured.

Eye experts urge extreme caution in observing the eclipse lest the retina of the eye become permanently scarred by burns. Some advise only indirect viewing; others say three thicknesses of fully exposed and fully developed black and white photographic film are adequate—but not sunglasses or pieces of smoked glass.

Scientists particularly are pray-

Yeoman Guilty Of Conspiracy

NEW YORK (UPI) — A federal court jury Friday found Navy Yeoman 1C. Nelson C. Drummond guilty of criminally conspiring to pass military documents to the Soviet Union, a charge that carries a maximum penalty of death.

But the jury of 10 men and two women failed to reach agreement on a verdict on the second count against Drummond and Judge Thomas F. Murphy declared the charge a mistrial.

The second count charged Drummond, a 34-year-old Negro, with a specific overt act of attempting to give documents to two members of the Russian delegation to the United Nations on Sept. 28 at a diner in Larchmont, N.Y.

ECLIPSE DUE TODAY

How To View It Without Damage

By JIMMY HATTEN
State Editor

Perhaps the most entertaining — and certainly the cheapest — way for Ark-La-Miss residents to see today's eclipse of the sun is by looking into a shoebox.

And, according to the U. S. Public Health Service and the National Association for the Prevention of Blindness, a method such as this is also much safter than attempting to look directly at the phenomonon.

In fact, these organizations have issued urgent warnings against using smoked glass, exposed film or sunglasses in an attempt to look directly at the sun during the eclipse period.

TIME OF ECLIPSE

The eclipse will occur in this area between 3 p.m. and 4 p.m. as the moon obscures almost half of the sun from the view of area residents.

The moon will move between the sun and the earth as clear to partly cloudy weather prevails in this area, according to the latest forecast.

There is also a possibility of scattered thundershowers. So, the eclipse may or may not be visible. It depends on the whims of nature.

However, if it is not too cloudy, that shoebox will still work.

To make a shoebox camera, just:

Punch a round hole about an eighth of an inch wide in the center of the top of a shoebox.

Cover the inside bottom of the shoebox with white paper, firmly fixed in place.

On one end of the top of the shoebox, cut out a hole large enough that you can see inside the box comfortably, but not

Foreign Aid Cut Another $240 Million

Funds Approved For Research On Birth Control

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Foreign Relations Committee sliced another $240 million from President Kennedy's foreign aid requests Friday and approved making research funds available for overseas birth control projects.

The latter action, taken on a voice vote, is likely to stir added controversy when the much-disputed measure reaches the Senate floor.

Chairman J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., sponsored the amendment which would make funds available, on request of the recipient governments, "to conduct research into problems of controlling population growth and to provide technical and other assistance to cooperating countries in carrying out programs of population control."

LITTLE DISCUSSION

A member said the committee adopted the amendment with little discussion.

A major problem in overseas economic assistance has been the fact that burgeoning population has made it difficult to raise the standard of living in emerging, underdeveloped nations. Some students of the problem insist that real development of many countries is impossible without some check on the upsurge of population.

But this is the furthest that any congressional group yet has gone in giving active support to birth control projects.

However, the United States has contributed $2.5 million in the past five years to a worldwide study of human reproduction by the 100-nation World Health Organization, a branch of the United Nations. Its latest of five $500,000 contributions was made last May.

President Kennedy has been cautious in his public statements on any active U.S. role in supporting birth control—opposition to which is led by the Roman Catholic Church, of which Kennedy is a member.

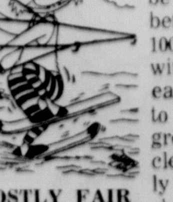
More Of Same, Forecast Says

Except for the eclipse today and a degree or two more heat nature seems satisfied with her handi-work with little change forecast today or Sunday.



MOSTLY FAIR

High today is expected to be somewhere between 94 to 100 degrees with the low easing back to 72 - 76 degrees under clear to partly cloudy skies. A cloud-hopping sun Friday raised the mercury to a peak of 95 degrees from a low of 71 degrees.

Winds today will increase somewhat, blowing through the area at 10 to 15 miles per hour from the south.

X15 Shoots 67 Miles To Set Record

EDWARDS AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (UPI)—X15 pilot Joe Walker shot into the "black velvet" of space Friday to set a new world aircraft altitude record of almost 67 miles, and returned to earth describing the flight nonchalantly as "all in a day's work."

The 41-year-old veteran flyer, America's top civilian pilot and also holder of the aircraft speed mark of 4,104 miles an hour, actually overshot his scheduled goal of 60 miles. The old mark was 59.6 miles set in the X15 last year by Air Force Maj. Bob White.

Known for his wisecracking about previous aviation feats in 18 years as a test pilot, Walker humorously explained his higher altitude Friday by saying: "Maybe that —— balloon in the back of the ship gave me the big lift." He referred to a balloon borrowed from the Mercury astronaut program released during Friday's flight to measure air density.

EXPLANATION

Space agency officials said what probably happened was the X15 received a greater thrust from the 57,000-pound rocket engine than expected, or a higher trajectory at the start of the flight.

Preliminary data fixed the altitude Friday at 350,000 feet, at a speed of 3,886 miles an hour—5.2 times the speed of sound, with the flight lasting 11 minutes.

"It's the smoothest flight I ever had," said Walker, who made his 24th trip in the revolutionary rocket ship.

'Quake Series Shakes Riviera

GENOA, Italy (UPI)—A series of rumbling earthquakes Friday drove thousands of panic-stricken tourists and residents into the streets along the 300-mile Italian and French Riviera playground. The tremors may have tilted the famed Leaning Tower of Pisa even more.

Buildings rocked, lamps swayed and clocks jolted to a stop with the first shock—exactly at 6:50 a.m.

Hundreds of persons fainted, but there were no reports of any serious injuries.

The quake zone extended as far inland as Turin and Milan to the north and westward to Marseille and Cannes in France and even hit the island of Corsica. Tremors were felt as far away as Perpignan, France, near the Spanish border in the foothills of the Pyrenees Mountains.

Another quake hit Japan and Italy's famed Mt. Etna—largest active volcano in Europe—spewed forth lava.

CONVENTION UNDERWAY

Legion's 40 & 8 Names Officers

By RICHARD TYLER
Staff Writer

The American Legion's 40 & 8 wound up a two-day convention here Friday by naming John E. Seeger of Metairie to its top post as Grand Chef de Gare. He succeeds Charles N. Thompson of New Orleans.

The Legion meanwhile, in the second of four days of meetings, spent the afternoon in discussion groups and caucusing in advance of election of officers Sunday.

Highlighting today's program, the heaviest so far, will be three major addresses, the third being that of Louisiana Atty. Gen. Jack P. F. Gremillion at the State Convention Dinner, slated for 7 p.m. on the roof of the Frances Hotel.

POWERS TO SPEAK

Speaking at 10:30 a.m. will be Louisiana's Eighth District U. S. Rep. Gillis Long, to be followed at 11 a.m. by an address by national American Legion Commander James E. Powers of Macon, Ga.

Both will be speaking at the second session of the full convention in the auditorium of Ouachita Parish Junior Hgh School. Meeting here, besides the Legion and the 40 & 8, are the Legion Auxiliary and the 8 & 40.

Other principal 40 & 8 officers named at the organization's second and final Grande Promenade at the Penn Hotel Friday were Alfred Petrus of Shreveport and Lawrence J. Orgeron, Houma, both named as Grand Chefs de Train.

Main speaker was Dr. S. S. Kety of Picayune, Miss., the organization's Sous Chef de Chemin de Fer, who urged the strengthening of the 40 & 8's nurses training program.

Voyageur Orgeron of Voiture Locale 1464 in Houma also was named the year's outstanding voyageur, while a child welfare trophy was awarded Voiture Locale 108 of New Orleans.

At the same time, leaders of each of Louisiana's eight Legion Districts were meeting in private caucus to consider the merits of 13 candidates for six offices, one of them national.

Louisiana Commander Percy Lemoine of Baton Rouge released the names of these announced candidates, though nominations will be taken from the floor at the convention's final session Sunday:

For Department (Louisiana) Commander — Merrick Swords and Bob Tracy, both of New Orleans area.

For Department Vice Commander (two will be elected) — Charles Riddle, Marksville; Dalton Comeaux, Opelousas; John Bailey, Baton Rouge; Sam Orchard, Monroe; and Maurice McKeniry, Slidell.

PARENTS, DAUGHTER, SON

Whitehurst Family Plans Big Wedding

JONESBORO, Ark. (AP) — It's going to be a family wedding—the Harmon Whitehursts, their daughter, and maybe their son.

The Whitehursts will be remarried Aug. 4 in the same ceremony in which their daughter, Bethel, 20, weds William Amos Spencer of Oklahoma City.

And Herschel Whitehurst, 18, the family's oldest son, is negotiating with his fiancee to move their wedding from September to Aug. 4.

Officiating at the ceremony will be the Rev. Y. D. Whitehurst, father of Harmon.

The whole thing was brought about by Arkansas' newly discovered and troublesome law which voids marriages in which either partner was underage on the wedding day.

The Whitehursts were married by a judge in Newport, Ark., when he was only 17. The man must be 18, the woman 16.

The Social Security Administration has said it will not pay wives' and widows' benefits to persons who are not legally married. Arkansas has no common law marriage provision.

Seven couples recently remarried in a mass ceremony in Star City, Ark. Four couples held a mass re-wedding in Benton, Ark.

The Whitehursts, both 39, work in a shoe factory in Jonesboro in northeast Arkansas. They found it convenient to set their second wedding date to coincide with that of their daughter. Her husband-to-be graduated from high school near Jonesboro this year and is working in Oklahoma City.

The Whitehursts also own a large farm. They have two younger children.

West Allies To Be Asked About Ideas

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States viewed with cautious hope Friday the Moscow test ban talks and said the Western allies will be consulted on Soviet Premier Khrushchev's optimistic - sounding pronouncements on the cold war.

The American reaction was expressed by State Department press officer Richard I. Phillips. He said items mentioned by the Soviet leader in his speech already have been discussed in the closed U.S.-British-Russian conference, as an aside from the test ban discussions.

Addressing a Soviet-Hungarian friendship meeting in Moscow Friday, Khrushchev lambasted the Red Chinese hard line toward the West and saw hope for reaching a limited nuclear test ban agreement in the negotiations now under way at the Soviet capital.

The Soviet leader also brought up several proposals the Kremlin has advanced in past discussions on easing cold war problems.

OBSERVATION POSTS

Among them, he mentioned setting up observation posts at airports, railway junctions, highways, and major ports inside Communist and Western territories to guard against sneak attack. Observers from the other side would be at points where they could report suspiciously large military movements.

The U.S. view as given by Phillips was this:

"We shall of course give careful study to the various suggestions outlined by Chairman Khrushchev today in his speech at the Kremlin Palace of Congresses and we will be consulting with our allies about them.

"The United States for its part has long sought practical means by which progress in arms reduction could be achieved.

"On the test ban issue specificially, the talks in Moscow directed toward working out a mutually satisfactory limited ban are proceeding in a businesslike manner.

"While caution about the outcome of these negotiations is still

Soviet Offers Plan To Back Up A-Test Ban

MOSCOW (AP)—Soviet Premier Khrushchev leaped into the East-West negotiations here Friday with a proposal to back up a nuclear test ban with a nonaggression pact and a system of airfield and railroad inspections to prevent surprise attack.

While the negotiators meeting in a nearby palace sorted out details of a partial test ban, the Soviet leader walked to the podium in the Kremlin and made a series of proposals that seemed to head straight for a summit conference.

He agreed the United States, Britain and the Soviet Union are approaching agreement on a nuclear test ban covering everything except underground explosions. He wants those too, he said, but added that the West insists on inspections. He implied those will not be approved.

With the test ban he wanted a nonaggression pact, just as he said July 2 in Berlin, but he clear

$29 Million In Idle State Funds Were Invested

BATON ROUGE (AP) — State Treasurer A. P. Tugwell said Friday he has invested $29 million in idle state funds since July 1, which will provide $178,000 in interest for a 90-day period.

A 1963 law, adopted after years of strife over the issue, called for investing idle funds as a means of adding to state revenues.

As treasurer of the State Bond and Building Commission, he invested the full $15 million the commission obtained in a June 28 bond sale. The money was placed in U. S. treasury bills for 90 days at 2.98 per cent interest, which will bring $108,000 in interest. This interest, however, must go to the commission fund.

Tugwell also placed $14,205,241 in 90-day time deposits with approximately 200 Louisiana banks, which will provide $70,000 in interest income for the state general fund.

These deposits consisted of $12.5 million in long existing reserves required for protection of highway bond holders, another $600,000 in a sinking fund, and miscellaneous funds.

It was invested in bank time deposits—inactive accounts which provide interest. The law limits the state treasurer to time deposits of 60 days to six months, at two per cent interest.

Tugwell said he planned to invest the $14,205,241 for six months at end of the current 90-day period. For a full year's investment, this will produce $208,000 interest, Tugwell said.

Tugwell is restricted to the flat two per cent for investment in time deposits with money in the state treasury. Bond and building commission money is not in the treasury.

Tugwell has another $10,311,423 in the various banks, but it will be spent within several days. The law forbids investment of funds that might have to be used within 60 days.

Tugwell collects about $40 million to $50 million on the 10th of each month in state revenues, but this goes immediately to pay state operating expenses.

Tugwell said that except for bonds, he saw nothing else in sight for idle fund investments. The legislature appropriated "just about every dime" anticipated, he said.

He can always invest any new bond money that isn't needed right away, he added.

Theft Counts Top Docket In City Court

A number of driving violations and theft counts topped action in Monroe City Court Friday.

Judge W. M. Harper nolle prossed five theft counts and fined two persons $100 each for theft in connection with shoplifting incidents. The counts nolle prossed were against Lonnie Lee Tribble, Negro, 215 N. 18th St., and Tommy Lee Tribble, Negro, 215 N. 18th St., both charged with theft of eight watermelons; Henry Edward Banner, 206 N. 14th St., and Maybell C. Jackson, 805 S. 28th St., both charged with theft of $25.40; and Harold Blakley, 509 St. John St., charged with theft of a tire and wheel and battery. D. E. Russell, and W. J. Morris, both of Rt. 4, Monroe, were fined the $100 on the theft counts.

A West Monroe woman, Hazel A. Bell, of Rt. 1, Box 46, was fined $425 and costs for driving while under the influence of intoxicating beverages. A reckless driving charge against her was nolle prossed. Two others, Elgin H. Miller, of 1204 S. 2nd St., and Freddie Smith, Negro, 204 N. 14th St., were both fined $30 and costs each for reckless driving. A no driver's license count against Smith was nolle prossed, as was a damage to property count against Alma O. Holman, no permanent address given.

James Davis, Negro, of 3500 Pippin St., Monroe, was released after a count of contributing to the delinquency of a juvenile was nolle prossed. Speeding violations resulting in either fines or bond forfeitures were against Lucille Hightower, 3707 Sabine St., $20; Minnie Allen, Rt. 4, Monroe, $18; and James Goldman, 3600 Deborah Dr., $18. Other traffic violations include one stop sign charge nolle prossed and two similar charges resulting in $8 bond forfeitures, one fined $40 for running a stop sign, one receiving a $25 suspended fine for following too close in traffic, and one being fined $30 and costs on a similar violation.

In other action, Negro Freddie Quinn, 102 S. Stone Ave., was fined $350 for aggravated battery, two were fined $30 for public drunkenness, four disturbing the peace counts were nolle prossed and one simple battery charge was also nolle prossed.

Budget Shows Healthy Black At Winnsboro

WINNSBORO (Special) — At the end of his first year in office Mayor W. E. (Frenchie) Marioneaux reported a large increase in the town's general fund and ordered an overall raise for the city's 34 regular employees.

Mayor Marioneaux reported the general fund and utilities now has a total balance of $30,770, an increase of $17,124.94 over the total balance of $13,645.61 when he first took office a year ago.

Two main reasons for the growth of revenue stem from the growth of sale of water by the town and a heavier city court docket during the past year. The report is from the town's financial statement ending June 30.

Mayor Marioneaux announced that regular city employees will receive both hourly and monthly across-the-board raises of about $12 per month for each employe.

During the past year, the mayor has made extensive improvements here including renovating city hall, improving the swimming pool, and actively engaging in a city cleanup campaign.

Carpenter Will Check On Eclipse

ABOARD ECLIPSE OBSERVATORY PLANE OVER CANADA, (AP) — Sixty scientists—among them a woman astronomer coaching astronaut Malcolm Scott Carpenter—flew a practice run Friday along the path of Saturday's total eclipse.

Bolted to the floor and windows of a modified DC8 jet airliner were special cameras to record and analyze the rare celestial spectacle of the moon blotting out the midday sun.

At his own window on the right side of the plane, Carpenter practiced with a hand-held camera which he hopes will capture on film the mysterious zodiacal light which has puzzled astronomers for years.

Carpenter, looking tired after spending hours Thursday on a whirling centrifuge at the naval air development center in Johnsville, Pa., flew in Friday morning to join the expedition.

"I hope to make a few comparisons of the sky as seen from a plane at 42,000 feet during an eclipse with the sky as I saw it from orbital altitude," Carpenter said.

The 38-year-old astronaut said he did not observe the zodiacal light phenomenon during his three-orbit flight May 24, 1962, possibly because there was too much light from instruments in his capsule.

Zodiacal light is a pearly band of illumination seen between earth and the sun just after sunset or before sunrise.

Scientists believe it is caused by radiation from the sun exciting space dust in much the same way that electric current makes the vapor slow in a fluorescent tube.

Observation of this light has been so brief and infrequent, however, that little is known about its significance.

ing for clear weather. The U.S. Weather Bureau is issuing special forecasts, drawing in part on photographs taken from the Tiros 6 weather satellite.

Among highlights of the scientific close-up on the eclipse:

One specially equipped jet will race along the path of the eclipse, thereby winning 144 seconds of totality, 44 more than for astronomers on the ground. Scientists aboard will photograph the sun's corona, and at eight-mile height they hope to catch it extending a far greater distance than visible from the ground for spectral and infrared radiation and other studies.

Scheduled aboard is astronaut M. Scott Carpenter Jr., with Dr. Jocelyn R. Gill, astronomer with the National Aeronautics and Space Administration keying him on observations of the airglow from zodiacal light, the coronoa, the dim sky, possibly comets, and other phenomena. This flight carrying 30 scientists is sponsored by Douglas Aircraft Co., the National Geographic Society and 11 other organizations.

A Royal Canadian Air Force plane in a similar flight will carry scientists concentrating on the corona spectrum and rapid changes in brightness of the chromosphere spectrum.

Other planes will be up for better cloud-clear viewing, including a flight over Maine in an American Airlines jet carrying astronomers from the Hayden Planetarium in New York and Smithsonian Astrophysical Observatory in Boston.

Among dozens of teams aground, German astronomers will try for more precise measurements of the bending of starlight by the gravity of the sun, a phenomenon predicted by Einstein in his theory of relativity.

Instrumented NASA rockets will race up from Fort Churchill, Canada; White Sands, N.M., and Wallops Island, Va., to measure electron density and temperature in the ionosphere, the sun's radiation in the ultraviolet and Xray regions of the spectrum during phases of the eclipse and take special looks at the airglow.

Using the moon as a mirror, other scientists will beam up radio or radar signals for reflection back to a network of ground receivers.

Falling Block Kills Student At Natchez Oil Rig

FERRIDAY (Special) — Funeral services for Robert Odell Fife Jr., 22-year-old Northeast State College student of Waterproof, will be at 3 p.m. today in Young's Funeral Chapel here.

The student was killed instantly early Friday when a 14-ton block used as part of a lifting device struck him on the head after falling about 30 feet from a derrick at the Cloverdale Field near Natchez, Miss. where he was working as an oil field hand.

He was working on the oil rig during the summer prior to returning to Northeast this fall to complete his senior year.

The falling block also fractured the jaw of a driller, M. L. Craft, 45. He was taken to Jefferson Davis Memorial Hospital.

Coroner R. E. Smith of Adams County ruled the death as accidental. The victim, son of a former LSU football player, was employed with H. L. Rowley Drilling Co. of Shreveport.

The Rev. J. D. Moring will officiate. Burial will be at Greenlawn Cemetery at Natchez.

Mr. Fife is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. O. Fife, route two, Waterproof; a sister, Mrs. Stanton Pearson, Waterproof; a brother, Kenneth Floyd Fife, Waterproof; and maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Hodges, Waterproof.

READY TO SEE IT

Now you are ready to see the eclipse.

Turn your back to the sun and look into the eyehold you have made in the box. Let the sun shine directly into the hole that has been made in the center of the box.

You should be able not only to see the image of the moon as it moves across the face of the sun, but any clouds in the sky near the sun as well.

Whether you use this method or some other, the most important thing to remember is in no instance look directly at the sun. To do so might burn the retina of the eyes and cause blind spots that will never heal.

These would be caused by infra-red rays of the sun which will be present during this period.

Youth Given Jail Term In West Monroe

A 17-year-old Monroe youth was given a six months jail sentence in West Monroe court Friday for simple theft, but Judge John McCormick later suspended the sentence.

Harold Blakley, of 509 St. John St., Monroe, given the six months suspended sentence, was placed on three years probation.

Judge McCormick levied a $300 fine or 90 days in jail on an Athens, Tex., man, Ben Evert Drummond, 30, for simple escape. A count of driving while under the influence against Palma T. Hubbard, of 1216 Hinkle Dr., West Monroe, resulted in a $300 fine. Larry Cummings, of Rt. 3, Box 154, West Monroe, was fined $15 and costs, while Bobbie Carter, Negro, of 1110 Pine St., Monroe, was fined $25 and costs for reckless driving.

TAWES DECLARES

Race Leadership Is Fragmented, Hindering Talks

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP) — Gov. J. Millard Tawes said Friday night "leadership of the integration movement in Cambridge is fragmented," hindering negotiations for an end to racial strife.

At the same time, he said, "to some extent the people of Cambridge have reacted to this crisis in commendable fashion. The demands for equality that were presented to the city officials have been met to a very large degree.

"Both sides are closer to agreement than their emotions allow them to admit. Only in a calm atmosphere can settlement be achieved."

Tawes twice has ordered the National Guard into Cambridge, most recently on July 12 after an outbreak in which six persons were wounded. Some 400 troops are still posted there.

Tawes asked integration leaders in Cambridge to have negotiators who can truly negotiate "meet with the newly appointed Cambridge Human Relations Committee to work out an amicable settlement."

Speaking less than five hours after integrationists from Cambridge had picketed the statehouse, the governor expressed his views in a speech for eight television and some 30 radio stations.

"One never really knows," Tawes said, "which individual is speaking for the Negro community at any one given time," and whether the leaders "are, in truth, leading, or being swept along in a wave of emotionalism."

The governor asked that the negotiators be individuals "who have the authority to arrange agreements that are not placed in jeopardy at emotionally charged meetings and rallies wherein a man's leadership capabilities are determined by his ability to shout the loudest."

"There is no solution—no lasting solution — to the problem of race discrimination to be found in the streets," he said.

"Unless all the citizens of this state begin to appreciate the magnitude of the social revolution now under way, we will face not weeks nor months of racial strife, but years."

Reviewing Cambridge developments of the past months, Tawes termed his witrdrawal of the guard from Cambridge July 8 unwise, and said it also was unfortunate that "14 demonstrators taken into custody by the National Guard on Tuesday were released."

Steps taken by city officials to meet Negro demands were listed by Tawes as integration of four remaining school grades in Dorchester County, appointment of the Human Relations Committee including four Negroes, passage of a city charter amendment for equal public accommodations, and the fact a qualified Negro will be employed at the Department of Employment Security office in Cambridge.

"This action indicates to me that the reasonable and responsible people of Cambridge are sincere in their desire to bring about a just settlement of this crisis."

The Negroes had rejected the package as unsatisfactory.

The governor said: "One Cambridge commissioner likened negotiations with integration leaders to an attempt to bring two pieces of rope together. 'Every time we get close,' he said, 'they move their end.' "

A few hours earlier, Cambridge integrationists carrying hand-lettered placards picketed the statehouse for an hour to protest the detention of two Negro juveniles in training schools.

As the pickets marched without incident, the governor was in Baltimore preparing his speech on Cambridge.

In his talk, he said, "I would not be justified in using the powers of my office, even if I could, to subvert a decision by the highest court of our state" and order the juveniles freed.

The Maryland Court of Appeals refused to release them until it can hear the arguments on merits of the case next fall.

Some 50 demonstrators from Cambridge, almost all of them Negroes, paraded in a circle on the brick walk of the statehouse in hot, humid weather, singing "We Shall Overcome" and other integration songs.

They were led by John Lewis, national chairman of the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee headquartered in Atlanta, Ga.

"Don't make war on children," read one of the signs they carried. Others read: "Gov. Tawes: we want executive pardon," "Is it delinquent to protest," and "Is this Cambridge or Birmingham?"

Negro leaders of the integration drive in Cambridge contend that two 15-year-old Negro juveniles were sent to training schools because they took part in racial demonstrations in Cambridge, 60 miles southeast of Annapolis on the Eastern Shore of Chesapeake Bay.

How long has Ann Landers been writing her column and how old was she when she started?

According to Publishers Newspaper Syndicate, which handles the column, the present column has been written by Ann Landers since December, 1955. She was 36 years old at the time she started. Incidentally, she has a staff of nine helping her.

On television shows about doctors and hospitals where operations are performed, are actual operations performed?

Betty Lanigan, of the National Broadcasting Company, reports no patient is used in surgical scenes. Sheets and draperies are built up to simulate presence of body. She says no picture of field of operation is ever shown, only oblique shots of surgeon's hands working. Shots of patients before and after operation on stretchers use real actors, however, just as in any other part.

Is gambling legal in Louisiana if you have a license for gambling?

There are two places in the state at which you can gamble legally. Those are the Fair Grounds race track in New Orleans, and the Jefferson Downs track in Jefferson parish which adjoins New Orleans. You can legally bet at the parimutuel betting windows at both tracks. But you have to be there to engage in the betting. Anywhere else in the state, gambling is illegal. There is no such thing as a "license to gamble" in Louisiana. It is not against the federal laws to gamble, but it is against state laws. The Federal Internal Revenue Service requires persons who conduct gambling games such as dice, roulette, slot machines etc., and bookies to buy a $50 wagering stamp and to pay an extra 10 per cent tax on their gambling income. On a coin-operated machine where gambling is involved the stamp cost $250. Possession of a federal gambling stamp, it should be pointed out, does not make gambling legal in a state with laws against it. Police can't go and arrest persons who have obtained federal gambling stamps. Mere possession of the stamps doesn't prove they have actually gambled. And payment of the extra 10 per cent gambling tax to IRS proves that the persons have gambled, but their names are closely guarded secrets, just like the names of persons who pay income tax on legitimate income. So for police to make the arrest for gambling stick, they have to have iron - clad evidence — and that is often pretty hard to actually get.

What are the correct words to the song, "Take Me Out To the Ball Game?"

"Nelly Kelly loved baseball games; knew the players; knew all their names. You could see her there everyday; shout hooray when they'd play. Her boy friend by the name of Joe, said, 'To Coney Isle let's go.' Then Nelly started to fret and pout; to him I heard her shout: 'Take me out to the ball game, let me out with the crowd; buy me some peanuts and crackerjacks, I don't care if we never get back; for it's root, root, root for the home team. If they don't win it's a shame, for it's one, two, three strikes you're out, at the old ball game." Nelly Kelly was sure some fan. She would root just like any man. Told the umpire he was wrong all along, good and strong. When the score was just two to two, Nelly Kelly knew what to do, just to cheer up the boys she knew, she made the gang sing this song, Take me out . . ."

Please explain the federal legislation passed granting additional funds to states which prohibit advertising within a certain distance from the new federal highway system? How much has this inducement and how many states have taken it, and under which administration was it approved?

The federal bureau of roads reports that under the federal highway program states which prohibits billboards closer than 660 feet from right - of - way receive one - half of one percent of federal funds spent in that state on interstate system. Nineteen states (Louisiana is not included) have qualified for this fund. This is part of a 1958 act which was signed into law by then President Eisenhower.

The American Indian is always pictured as being smooth - shaven. How do they shave and what with if they do so?

The modern Indian shaves like everyone else, either with blade or electric razor. In earlier times, however, the Indian plucked each individual hair out with fingers. Painful Nes Pas?

I've been told the longest horse strike on record was made by Man O'War and that it was 28 feet. My opinion is 22 feet? Who is right?

According to the "Encyclopedia of Sports" Man O'War was credited with average leaps of 27 feet. The encyclopedia doesn't list any longer strike, so we must assume that the 27 - foot average is the record. At anyrate, the record is more than 22 feet.

Why have the first two blocks of Orange Street going east off South Second Street remained unpaved and what is necessary to get it paved?

The city reports that this part of Orange Street is under contract now, from South Second to South Fifth. Gravel has already been added, but the section must pack before it can be blacktopped. This will be done just as soon as it is possible to do so.

Why has South College Avenue not been blacktopped? Several of us commute daily to Northeast State from places like Mangham, Winnsboro and other points east and southeast, and South College Avenue is the shortest route for us. I've heard a lot of complaints on this.

The City also reports that South College from the railroad to Powell Avenue is under contract and will be blacktopped. But before it can be blacktopped, the base of the street must be prepared. This process is going on now.

Why aren't the traffic lights on Louisville Avenue set so as to allow a continuous flow of traffic? The way they are set now — at least as far as the public can tell — the lights all change about the same time. If, for instance, the light just as you come over the bridge changed to green and the one further down changed to green several seconds later and so on, it would seem that traffic would move more efficiently. As it is now, one has to stop at least every other light, depending of course, on your speed and the amount of traffic. Also could not the lights on one - way streets leading off Louisville be set in the same manner?

Reports from various agencies give this answer:

The traffic lights on Louisville avenue are set by the State Department of Highways after a complete count on the number of vehicles using the different intersections. The department makes this count, using the traffic flow on all of the streets in each intersection, then sets the lights to adjust to what it considers the best flow. The Louisville avenue lights are adjusted so that a motorist traveling east, under normal conditions and at moderate speed, should be able to go from the bridge to either North Third or North Fourth Streets. The lights are adjusted, also, so as to prevent speeding through the area, which is one of the most heavily used in the city. The City of Monroe maintains these lights, but makes no adjustments on the timing. It doesn't install lights on that thoroughfare either because it is a federal and state highway. After the lights have been installed, the Department of Highways periodically makes checks on the amount of traffic to determine if any change is needed.

When a horse neighs on a television show or in the movies is the sound you hear the actual neigh of the horse or is it artificially produced, if so, how?

We are advised that the sound of the neigh could be either way; that is it could be the actual horse sound or it could be one that is artificially produced, or the real thing, is usually pre-taped or recorded.

EASTON PLANT

NEW YORK (UPI)—The Dixie Cup division of American Can Co. said Friday it will build a new plant near Easton, Pa., to make plastic cups and containers. The plant will occupy a 100-acre site and will be finished by September 1964. It will be largely automatic and most of the initial 50 workers will be drawn from other Canco plants.

IN WASHINGTON

JFK Receives Railroad Report

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy received the report of his railroad fact-finders Friday as the lengthy work rules dispute once again approached a "what-happens-now" countdown.

In a shift of plans, the White House decided to make the 15-page report public Saturday. However, that document is described as offering no solution, but only a summary of issues on which the carriers and their five on-train unions have remained widely split for four years.

Kennedy will reveal his proposal for preventing or halting a crippling strike in submitting recommendations to Congress on Monday, along with the fact-finders' report.

The President is taking the report with him to Hyannis Port, Mass., where he is expected to study it and come to a decision over the weekend.

The six-man panel of representatives of management, labor and government—headed by Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz—called on Kennedy to give him the fruits of their efforts of the past week. Both sides in the dispute reportedly regard the report as accurate.

Pierre Salinger, presidential press secretary, told reporters the report will be released Saturday at Hyannis Port and here. Earlier, the announced plan was to make it public Monday along with Kennedy's message to Congress.

Salinger was asked whether legislation to deal with the railroad-union deadlock was discussed at the White House conference. But he declined to elaborate on his statement that the President "had a discussion with the committee."

Setting up of the panel was a last-hope effort by Kennedy which halted a threatened nationwide railroad strike eight hours before it was scheduled to begin. It was the culmination of a series of efforts by the President to prod the two sides into agreement and he announced then that "no further such request for a continuance will be made by this administration."

Kennedy has been expressing hope that the two sides would arbitrate their differences and make any further government action unnecessary, but there have been no talks along this line reported since the presidential panel was appointed.

Unless Kennedy's report prompts the two sides to come to agreement or Congress can whip through some strike-halting legislation in one week the two sides will be free to act as they choose on July 29.

Under the July 10 agreement, the railroads said they would hold off until then on imposing new work rules to eliminate what they call "featherbedding," or outmoded jobs. The unions—representing firemen, enginemen, switchmen, conductors and brakemen — agreed this would delay any necessity for a strike.

But the unions say they will strike whenever the carriers impose the rules. They contend most of the more than 60,000 jobs that would be wiped out are necessary for safety and efficiency.

SINATRA SIGNS CROSBY

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Frank Sinatra announced Friday that Bing Crosby has signed with his company, Reprise Records, for future recordings. The association combines two of the world's biggest record sellers. Crosby's first assignment will be a Christmas album with Sinatra.

Daley's Office Faces Threat

CHICAGO (UPI) — Integrationists announced Friday they will begin a sit-in in Mayor Richard J. Daley's offices Monday to prod for sweeping action against racial segregation and discrimination.

Congress of Racial Equality (CORE) pickets kept up their march outside Chicago Board of Education offices, from which 10 sit-in demonstrators were bodily removed by police Thursday, and scheduled a rally in front of the building late Friday.

Sam Riley, president of the Chicago branch of CORE, said the planned sit-in at the city hall will be "along the lines we used against the Board of Education."

Fears Political Eclipse

With a total eclipse of the sun slated for mid-afternoon today, we recall the reaction of Governor Nelson Rockefeller in the face of a partial political eclipse last week about this time.

Similar to the sun's remaining rays gaining in intensity during an eclipse, Governor Rockefeller released blistering statements aimed at lining up the Republican majority behind the so-called "moderate" faction. His policy statement was timed to counteract the obvious rise in popularity of Senator Barry Goldwater.

Rockefeller admitted that the GOP needed an alternative to the "unprincipled opportunism" that has captured the Democratic Party. But he asserted: "That alternative will never be found in a party of extremism, a party of sectionalism, a party of racism."

The New York governor did not mention Senator Goldwater as the target of his attack. But the remarks were timed so as to fit an obvious "Stop Goldwater" movement.

The mystery of this phenomenon is just why there should have to be any such move and why should the principle issue — conservatism in government — be so clouded by Governor Rockefeller and others.

The Arizona senator does not intend to be a political philosopher. And though there is sincerity and force in his personality, he is not the sort of speaker or "looker" who can move masses.

We can only look to the issues involved in order to understand the westerner's rise to popularity. Goldwater has been a national political figure since 1952. But his ability to effect a closing of ranks of the nation's conservatives has just begun.

A large part of the Arizonan's following is made up of those who are dissatisfied with the direction which has dominated both major political parties in the United States for more than a generation.

Willkie, Dewey, Eisenhower and Nixon have dismissed the more conservative thinkers as a relatively small number. Yet only one of these hopefuls went to the White House, and he had the momentum of a brilliant millitary rise to fame in his immediate background.

There was a time when it was considered a fresh political idea that the federal government could solve all our problems — from farm prices to slum clearance and including unemployment and aid to education along the way. This was to be done, of course, by soaking the rich and passing the good things of life on to the "common man" through government projects.

Particularly the young people of today now feel that "soaking the rich" through taxation actually catches up any measure of the good things of life for everybody. So many of these good things include saving modest amounts of money through investments and ownership of property.

This unites many of the younger persons with older ones who "learned better" about new deal policies 25 years ago. And if it has created a Goldwater movement in politics — which might be stronger than a Rockefeller movement — it is because the Arizona senator is unafraid to vary from the "me too" line.

Certainly none of Governor Rockefeller's barbs struck home with Goldwater. He is not an extremist, he does not represent a single section of the United States, and he is not a racist.

Chinese Atomic Bomb

Along with the alleged split between Russia and Red China there is the threat of a Red Chinese nuclear bomb lurking in the background. This is cause for concern as is every new atomic weapon produced anywhere.

But we in the United States can be more concerned that our officials do not turn their heads while the Russians begin sneaking bombs and delivery systems into Cuba again. It would be foolish indeed for the United States to presume that the Soviet Union is now a "safe" communist country and Red China "dangerous" because of the tone of the propaganda coming from each.

It is true that the basis of the so-called split is that Russia has announced a policy of "coexistence" while Red China's leaders have continued to speak of inevitable military conflict with the free world.

Red China was expected to detonate its first nuclear bomb this year, but now it appears there will be a delay. Perhaps this is due to the withdrawal of Russian scientific help for the time being. Whatever the reason, however, there is little doubt that Red China will set off such an explosion within the next year or so.

Mao Tse-Tung's military production machinery is past the stage where Russian know-how and supervision are absolute necessities. Numbers of Chinese scientists and technicians have already been trained. Red China has had a nuclear reactor in action since 1960 and has built three or four additional ones since that time. There is enough plutonium in Red Chinese stockpiles for the explosion of several bombs as large as those the French have set off in the Sahara Desert.

It may require several years longer for Red China to perfect such weapons and longer still to build bombers or rockets to carry them. But the mere possession of such a bomb could serve to threaten her neighbors and meet Red China's aggressive aims in eastern Asia.

If Khrushchev wants to gain prestige through power politics, Mao Tse-Tung would like to increase his position through threats and terror tactics. The Red Chinese leader wants to be neither second to Soviet Russia nor backward in the eyes of western powers.

The United States and the other free world nations should be ready to accept any Red Chinese explosion of an atomic bomb for what it is worth. While such a report would not be good news, there would be no point whatsoever in our warming up to Russia as a result.

Senator Soaper Says:

Congress is doing less and less and getting bigger and bigger offices to do it in.

The man at the next desk says about the only thing that can be said for his vacation trip is that it was a little more successful than the Greek royal visit to England.

Surveying the array of bridal presents is an interesting experience for people who started married life with jelly glasses to drink out of and no ash trays except a couple of peanut cans.

It's the pleasant time of year when you realize that nothing much can be done about your garden, lawn or favorite ball team, and you can just relax and enjoy them as they are.

We are informed that the way-out beatnik is on the way out, but are heaving no sighs of relief until we see what replaces him.

Next Halloween may be the scariest in years, now that the chances are pretty good that Congress will still be in session.

Directions are simple in the hills. When a tourist asks where, he is just directed to the next town down the road.

RALPH DE TOLEDANO

Polygraph And Civil Rights

Lie Detector Puts Accused Person At Mercy Of Interpretation; Tests Show It Faulty In Third Of Cases

In all the commotion about civil rights, very little is said about the use of the lie detector — an instrument which puts you at the mercy of an "interpretation" of physical changes in your body when under questioning. The lie detector is so clearly in violation of the Bill of Rights that little is said about it. Yet the Central Intelligence Agency employs it on a mass basis. So do other government bodies. And business is becoming increasingly dependent on it.

Yet it can be stated flatly that the lie detector (or more accurately, the polygraph) is, from the viewpoint of scientific crime detection, nearly useless. No instrument which can be wrong at least one-third of the time can be trusted by those who take law and order seriously. FBI director J. Edgar Hoover has warned against reliance on the polygraph and derided the idea that it is any where near infallible. Police chiefs admit that its main value is psychological. That is, it often frightens criminals into making confessions.

SO STRONG has the evidence against the polygraph become that Science Digest entitles a carefully researched article in its August issue "The Great Lie-Detector Hoax." The significance of the article can be gauged by the fact that a Deputy Secretary of Defense, two service Secretaries, and two other high Pentagon officials were requested to take a polygraph test recently over the question of some leaked information. Only the protests of the press put a stop to this.

In discussing the topic, Bruce H. Frisch notes that not only FBI chief Hoover but Pope Pius XII objected to the polygraph. In West Germany, use of the instrument is not allowed and "in Britain, police have little interest or confidence in the machine." In the United States, some good results have been obtained by the "few good examiners." But Science Digest quotes an expert as saying that of the 400 polygraph practitioners today "80 per cent are either incompetent or outright frauds."

The polygraph is based, as I said, on bodily changes which occur when feelings of guilt exist. But frequently, in the complex motivations of human beings, a question about the offense being investigated may trigger a reaction because of guilt feelings held by the subject concerning other matters of no serious import. There are people, in fact, who react badly on the polygraph to questions about theft because at the age of 12 they took 25 cents from their mother's purse and have had that "guilt" lodged in their subconscious ever since.

GUILT, moreover, is not the only emotion that brings about the body changes recorded by the polygraph. Anger will make the same marks on the chart, and so will imperceptible physical movement or muscular discomfort. For a polygraph reading to approach any degree of accuracy, the examiner must not only know to question a suspect but must have a substantial knowledge of his past history. This then ceases to be a cut-and-dried reading of a chart. It is an "interpretation," and as Mr. Hoover says, "whenever the human element enters into an interpretation of anything, there is always variance." The American Psychiatric Association warns that a polygraph chart alone is useless and must be part of a mass of other psychological and sociological evidence.

Yet a man accused of a crime is frequently put under tremendous pressure to take a lie-detector test — and if he refuses, this is usually considered an admission of guilt. There are people who are nervous or tense and whose reactions, even to innocuous questions, can "show" guilt on the chart.

Science Digest is justifiably concerned because many people are unaware that they cannot be compelled to submit to lie detector tests. It also stresses that "government and business use the lie detector for security checks, pre-employment screening, to investigate specific losses, and for mass periodic fishing expeditions, which they hope will put the fear of discovery into their dishonest employees." This is certainly violative of due process, particularly when it leads to the loss of jobs.

I KNOW of a case in which a woman was sent to the death house — and now serves a life term because a polygraph test which properly interpreted would have shown that she was lying to cover up for her lover. He sailed through the test with flying colors and remains free. What's the moral? Think twice before you urge your state legislature to make polygraph evidence admissible in court.

DR. PETER J. STEINCROHN

Heart Stands Test

Mother Of Six Should Not Worry About Simple Murmur

Dear Dr. Steincrohn: I had rheumatic fever when I was about seven years old and have been left with a heart murmur which my doctor said was due to rheumatic heart disease. I am 30 now and the mother of six children, (12, 10, 8, 6, 4 and 2). So far my heart has never bothered me.

Yet when I was a child I wasn't allowed to attend school, climb stairs and take part in active life. But I married at 16 and had six healthy children.

A recent examination (X rays, ECG, etc.) showed that I am in nice shape. My heart is not enlarged. Nevertheless, I still worry about myself because of my history of heart disease. What can you tell me? — Mrs. C.

COMMENT: First, I can tell you that now is certainly not the time to worry. Most women with rheumatic heart disease begin to worry about their first pregnancy. Can they have a baby? That is uppermost in their mind. I usually tell them — provided there is no heart failure — that there is no contraindication.

I recall one patient with rheumatic heart disease who had five children without trouble. You have gone me one better. I mention these births to bring courage to many young women with well-compensated hearts who are afraid to have their first baby.

EFFECTS DIFFER

People should remember that rheumatic fever doesn't effect everyone in the same way. At least 50 per cent come through without even getting a heart complication. Many of these who have actual heart involvement, may live out normal lives. Others, depending upon the amount of involvement in the valves and heart muscle, may have to curtail some normal activities.

AS FOR you, Mrs. C., I suggest you go along without any thoughts about your heart. What greater proof then six normal children and a recent report which gives you a clear bill of health?

Dear Dr. Steincrohn: We have a daughter that was two years old a few months ago. She has already had pneumonia five times. On and off she has had diarrhea very badly. It seems she dosen't digest her food at all.

Our pediatrician has sent her to another hospital to have a "sweat test" made. Now, I have no idea what is wrong with her and am upset all the time. Don't you believe I should be told? — Mrs. G.

Comment: Often, being kept in the dark is worse than knowing. Of course, it all depends upon whether or not your doctors have been able to make a diagnosis. I think you ought to know that putting one and one together: taking the sweat test and the history of the indigestion and frequent pneumonia, I would think of the possiblility of cystic fibrosis. This is only a guess. But your doctors will, I know, be glad to tell you how far they have gone in diagnosis if you insist on knowing the truth. I think you deserve to know. Indecision will be harder on you than the truth.

PEP PILLS?

Dear Dr. Steincrohn: What do you think of high school kids taking benzedrine to keep them awake the night before exams? Aren't these pep pills bad for youngsters? — Mrs. M.

Comment: Few students sleep well the night before finals, even if they know their stuff "cold." I'm not in favor of pep pills to keep them awake. Hot, black coffee is the traditional and effective remedy.

Dear Dr. Steincrohn: The fingers of my hands get numb and so white they are actually bloodless in cold weather. What's wrong? — Mrs. J.

COMMENT: I don't know what's wrong but I'd want to be sure that the cause is not Raynaud's disease — in which there is circulation trouble in the extremities. In some, medicines may help; in others, special operations to augment the blood supply to the hands.

Dr. Steincrohn's leaflet, "Practical Information for Shingles Patients," will be mailed to you on receipt of a stamped, self-addressed enveloped and 10 cents in coin for handling. Address your request to Dr. Steincrohn, in care of this newspaper.

Noise From Jets

More Than 1,200 Lawsuits Filed On Sky Acoustics

Congress, if it did not have enough problems on its doorstep already, is being told very vociferously that it must do something, but quick, about another one-jet plane noise.

The number of people telling off Congress for not doing something about their disturbed slumbers and daytime annoyance is not large yet but it is becoming real noisy in behalf of its project to make planes quieter.

Mostly the effort is centered in urban areas having a total population of perhaps 20,000,000, or a little over. The most clamorous of the voices demanding that the national lawmakers do something about sky acoustics are those on Long Island in New York, close by LaGuardia and Idlewild airports.

THIS WEEK New York members of Congress began importuning their fellow legislators to make $10,000,000 available to finance preliminary research aimed at quieter jet engines. The research departments of some big private industries, such as General Electric, say that perhaps a half a billion dollars would be necessary to finance research that might come up with a solution.

Congress, in fact, has been sporadically looking into the question of plane noise abatement since 1960. Hearings were held before the House Interstate and Foreign Commerce Committee. Generally the Congressional feeling is that it has more urgent matters to consider. Perhaps not more than 50 of the 435 members of the House of Representatives and a dozen out of the 100 members of the Senate have expressed much interest.

Not all residents of areas adjacent to jet airports are disturbed. Some take the noise in stride, quietly accepting it as one of the prices of progress. But there are those whom it bugs plenty. Verification of that is found in the fact that more than 1,200 lawsuits have been filed in the courts. These lawsuits were started by home owners claiming their lives have been disrupted by plane noises.

New York Congressmen, egged on by constituents whose nocturnal repose has been discomfited, are trying to get the State Department into the act. Trans-Atlantic flight schedules are tailored to the European airport hours, thus increasing the New York night traffic. Is it cricket, they ask, for all the night traffic from Idlewild just to assure the placidity of London dwellers, for instance.

THE FEDERAL Aviation Agency has not seemed too interested in the citizen uproar over plane noise, Najeed Halaby, its chairman, made it quite clear that he was principally concerned with safety - that he wouldn't "jeopardize safety for serenity."

Plane manufacturers and airlines haven't got the kind of money necessary for the required research. They say the job would have to be done by the Government and the tab picked up by the Federal taxpayer.

Some engineers and acoustic experts say the responsibility for the jet noise lies with the plane manufacturers - that they "just tack on an engine after the rest of the plane is designed." Paul S. Veneklasen, a west coast acoustics expert, has said that the great steps toward abating noise could come from better designs that integrated the plane and engine.

FAA IS spending $1,500,000 for noise research work this year, but $554,000 of that is going into the hunt to find a way to quiet the engine noise of the future 2,200 mile-an-hour supersonic commercial passenger plane, for which there may not be a prototype before 1970. FAA's goal is to keep that supersonic transport plane as quiet as present day jets, which is not encouraging for those who make a claim that jet noise will some day be a national health menace.

There is also talk of the vertical take-off and landing plane, but that seems to be 20 years away, and will come only through military experiments.

A high wing to replace the present low wing of the jets is another suggestion for lessening jet noise headaches.

THERE ARE those who are prodding for a crash program to find a jet noise abatement solution quick. Congress isn't going to buy that approach, of course. It is already writing too many I.O.U.'s for red ink spending programs.

Gold And Politics

Gold Outflow Problem Has Now Developed Into Crisis

Down goes our gold again — down and out.

America's reserve at Ft. Knox, not one nickel of which we now own, has sunk to still another new 23-year low.

President Kennedy stated in October, 1960: "Our balance of payments will be strong and we can cease to worry about the outflow of gold."

IN TRUTH, Mr. Kennedy changed a gold problem that he inherited into a gold crisis. And he still absolutely refuses to tackle this crisis except within the limits of his political desires.

Treasury Secretary C. Douglas Dillon turned completely political the day he took over and has been doing nothing more substantial than yes-yes the boss ever since. There's no more chance of saving the American dollar through C. Douglas Dillon than through a pearl diver off the coast of Shikoku.

Under Secretary of the Treasury Robert V. Roosa, formerly an outstanding technician at the New York Federal Reserve Bank, where their fine respect for him remains, is the able man who really concocted the complex stopgaps with our foreign creditors — borrowing from Peter to pay Paul.

Moreover, Federal Reserve Board Chairman William MaC Martin Jr. has been a behind-the-scenes hero in all this, trying to hold the fort for our country with his long-time friends in central banks abroad.

BUT THE U. S. Treasury is merely a cash register. It merely puts our vast taxes into its till ($102 billion from us last year) while Administration overspenders exceed these and paper the American people and the world with I. O. U.'s Yet, hey! That's our money.

Nonpolitical experts with no ax to grind discover themselves utterly defeated in serious discussions with Mr. Kennedy on this subject. He will talk about improving exports and the balance of payments. But this is only half the story.

IT IS Mr. Kennedy's overspending and the conviction that the only way the New Frontier can keep going is to spend more and to borrow and borrow more that profoundly alarms our creditors. Accordingly, they exercise their option to withdraw our gold (as some depositors draw money out of what they suspect is a badly managed bank) because they mistrust the up-up-upping of the debt limit, the irresponsibility, the alibis and — most importantly — the misinformation and pretense about "myths" that accompany the handling of this nation's money.

President Kennedy talks all 'round and 'round this point but refuses to face up to that fact. But it is evident that Mr. Kennedy refuses to see this only because he does not want to see it. For although his policies have always paid off in politics they have never paid off in the security of any nation.

IN ADDITION, it is undeniable that free world chaos would result from dollar devaluation or a gold embargo. Even back in November, 1961, when our gold reserve first sunk to a new low under this Administration, Mr. Dillon stated: "Maintenance of the fixed dollar price of gold and free convertibility of gold and the dollar are the cornerstones not only of our monetary policy but of the entire international financial system. President Kennedy has pledged that they will remain so. That pledge will be kept."

But no man on earth can make a pledge like that stick unless it is supported by the required performances. And Mr. Kennedy has committed the New Frontier to unlimited red-ink spending.

Legion's 40 & 8 Names Officers

mitteeman — Henry Clay, Shreveport, and Abe Pereira, Raceland.

For Alternate National Executive Committeeman—Mike Gehr, Alexandria, and Charles Herring, Lake Providence.

Two color - bearers of the Legion's 500 Negro organization also will be elected.

Friday's seven discussion groups, in the Frances Hotel, convention headquarters, and the annex building of Ouachita Parish Junior High School, all were held at 2 p.m. Reports from each will be rendered at this morning's convention session.

Considered were: Americanism, including Un - American Activities, Legion baseball, school awards, athletics, community activity and national Americanism citations; Consttution and By-Laws; Finance; Public Information; Rehabilitation and Child Welfare; Resolutions; and Security and Governmental Affairs. The latter is expected to produce official comment on national defense, legislation, civil defense, safety education and veterans' employment, according to Convention Chairman Charles Cascio of Monroe.

Registration for all four organizations had reached nearly 1000 delegates by Friday afternoon, Chairman Robert F. Bealle said.

He was anticipating an additional sign - up today of from 200 to 300 persons, and predicted a final registration by Sunday of approximately 1500.

NUMBER OF DELEGATES

His figures included 860 delegates signed up for the Legion meetings and around 100 for the Auxiliary, though he pointed out that there was "probably some overlap." Bealle noted that some registered for the 40 & 8 meetings had not enrolled on Legion books, thereby swelling total registration to around 1000.

Earlier in the day, the combined conventions heard an address by Louisiana State University President, Dr. John Hunter, in which he described a close link between the so - called population "explosion" and education in America.

He also praised the Legions "deep interest in and responsibility to Louisiana's youth."

Touching on the population explosion, he said that by 1975 Louisiana's population would increase from three to four million persons.

"Obviously, a majjority of these new Louisianians will be young people who will tax to the limit our capacity to provide them with schools, colleges, jobs and a reasonable opportunity for success," Dr. Hunter said.

He predicted the enrollment at L.S.U. would double by 1970 and touch an all - time high of 30,000 students.

Delegates were welcomed to the city by Monroe Mayor W. L. Howard.

Journalism awards, made at the same session, the first general session of the convention, went to three newspapers and two post publications.

The Shreveport Journal won the metropolitan daily award for its coverage of Legion news, while the non-metropolitan daily award went to the Bogalusa Daily News.

The Minden Herald Press received the award in the weekly division.

Legion posts winning honors were the Stanley Marlin-Felix Ducrest Post 69 of Lafayette and the Carrolton Post 228 of New Orleans.

Other events during the day included a Child Welfare luncheon at noon in the Crystal Ballroom of the Virginia Hotel, the opening general session of the Legion Auxiliary's convention at 1 p.m. addressed by Mrs. M. R. Wausherr, president of Monroe's L. B. Faulk Post 13, also in the Virginia, and the Legion's past presidents' luncheon at 2 p.m. at the Frances. Presiding at the latter session was Immediate Past Louisiana Commander J. B. Broussard Jr. of Baton Rouge.

A combined dance was held at 9 p.m. Friday on the roof of the Frances.

Another dance is set for 10 p.m. tonight at the Paragon Club, after the convention dinner.

Also planned for today is a bowling tournament at 4 p.m. at Bowlero Bowling Lanes.

Soviet Offers Plan To Back Up A-Test Ban

opened a new way to negotiations on that.

"We think that the question of the form of the nonaggression pact can be solved without any great difficulties to the mutual satisfaction of both sides. Most important thing is not the form, but the content," he said.

"The most important thing is for each side to display willingness to ease tensions and to liquidate the state of the cold war."

The proposals immediately were studied anew by the British and American delegations here even though there was some indication that he had outlined them in their first talk last Monday, when he opened the negotiations in the Kremlin.

Khrushchev spoke at a meeting of 6,000 in honor of Hungary's visiting premier and Communist party leader, Janos Kadar.

The audience cheered repeatedly as he made them. They cheered again when he lashed out at the Chinese Communists, accusing them of wanting to carry forward their revolutionary fervor at the risk of a nuclear war.

He scoffed at them for doubting his old thesis that the Socialist system will beat capitalism with production, not guns.

Khrushchev made clear in his 90-minute speech that he wanted a nonaggression pact or something mighty like it to come out of the present negotiations. Undersecretary of State W. Averell Harriman, chairman of the U.S. delegation, has repeatedly said he is here to negotiate a test ban, though he is ready to discuss anything else under the sun.

Just as when he welcomed Harriman, Lord Hailsham of Britain and other members of the Western legations in the Kremlin last Monday, Khrushchev appeared in warm good humor. However, he was hoarse, as if he had a cold or was tired.

Here is what he proposed:

—The test ban covering all nuclear explosions except underground, which he said is not feasible now.

—A nonaggression pact between the Soviet-led Warsaw powers and the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

—A settlement of the Berlin-German question—he set no time limit.

—Freezing, or reduction, of military budgets.

—A system of posts of inspection scattered both East and West of the Iron Curtain at airfields, railroad stations, highways and ports their presence might spot any troop movements for a surprise attack.

—Reduction of the armed forces on both sides in East and West Germany.

The proposal for inspections to shield both sides from surprise attack by ground or air forces had been made before.

It was originally advanced by the Soviet Union in the U.N. General Assembly five years ago, though airfields were omitted at that time. The Soviet memorandum offered in disarmament discussion then went even further in one way, suggesting aerial photography to check on parts of central Europe, the Soviet Union and the United States.

In the light of the new and optimistic approach to lowering East-West tensions, the idea appeared to take on new life.

Coordinated Plan On Wildlife Cited

WASHINGTON (Special) — A Louisiana congressman said Friday there is a great need for more coordinate effort between state biologists and the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service in determining duck hunting seasons and bag limits in the Mississippi and other flyways.

Rep. T. A. Thompson (D-La.) sad this was the major point developed during two-day hearings before the house fisheries and wildlife subcommittee, which he heads.

Several of the state biologists testifying at the hearings, including Richard K. Yancey of Baton Rouge, contended that both seasonal and bag limits set by the federal service in recent years have been too restrictive. They pointed out that as a result of the rigid limitations, many sportsmen have lost interest in duck shooting, which in turn is depriving the program of valuable support, both monetary and in terms of maintaining hunting preserves that provide winter habitat for wild fowl.

Thompson spoke with high praise of the state biologists.

He said the results of the hearing will show that none of those who testified was "self-serving for his own hunters or state." "They simply feel that a better knowledge should be had of the resource prior to determinations being made as to limitations," the chairman added.

Testimony presented by representatives of sportsmen's groups revealed their primary interest was in maintaining interest in duck hunting as a sport, "commensurate to the perpetuation" of the duck population," Thompson said.

"If interest is lost in this recreational resource," he added, "millions of acres of habitat will be put to other purposes, thereby defeating our efforts to perpetuate the resource by bag and seasonal limitations."

Thompson stated that he had extended the hearing longer than he had intended because of the apparent wide interest in the matter.

"I feel that for the first time our subcommittee has received full information from every conceivable source of interest in the problem of maintaining the duck resource." he said. "It was brought out forcefully," he added, "that the sportsmen of America, and especially those of Louisiana, feel that this resource which is migratory waterfowl should be made availbale to sportsmen to a point commensurate with the perpetuation of the resource."

Thompson stated that many things were brought out in the hearings which will be used in further conferences with the bureau of sport fisheries and wildlife in an attempt to assist them in coordinating ther efforts with qualified officials of Louisiana and other states, without whose support the bureau could not adequately manage this segment of America's game birds." "I hope," congressman Thompson said, "that the testimony received will assist in the establishment of more mutual understanding of the problems invovled."

Demonstrators Arrested At Shreveport

SHREVEPORT, La. (AP)—Police Friday arrested 10 Negroes in connection with demonstrations at two Shreveport lunch counters.

Four were arrested at Woolworth's and three at Walgreen's. The other three Negroes were officials of a "Direct Action Committee."

Police also were ordered to pick up Charles Evers of Jackson, Miss., Mississippi field secretary for the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, but he was back in Mississippi. Evers, who succeeded his slain brother, Medgar Evers, in the post, spoke at a memorial service for his brother Wednesday night.

After the demonstrations the drug store closed its entire store. Woolworth closed the lunch counter, stacking it with merchandise and began removing the seats.

No incidents were reported. Observers said police ordered the demonstrators to move and then arrested them when they refused.

We hear from Herbert Rinehart that the Owens, Mack and D, of West Monroe, are off again on a summer outing.

He says they'd heard so much about the big amusement park, Six Flags Over Texas, that they went over to Dallas to take a look at it.

Greetings

Belated birthday greetings seem to be getting to be a habit with us.

Another one we heard about late is West Monroe's Louis Gruber, who says no one needs to remind him how old he is, since his grandchildren take care of that chore.

At any rate, happy birthday. He reached the most recent milestone Tuesday.

A Master's degree will be conferred tonight at 8 p.m. at West Monroe Masonic Lodge, according to an announcement by Worshipful Master A. P. Knight. The degree team from Oak Ridge, La. will be special guests and assist in the conferring of the degree.

West Allies To Be Asked About Ideas

in order, we hope they will be brought to a successful conclusion."

Previous Kremlin proposals along the lines Khrushchev offered Friday have had terms of their own or were linked to other proposals unacceptable to the West.

The United States too has proposed various first-step ways of reducing cold war tensions, including stationing of observers in each other's territory.

Washington experts, therefore, are closely examining Khrushchev's address to see what previously objectionable features he may be including now. Khrushchev spoke in such vague terms, however, that preliminary study indicated more time would be needed to find out just what he meant.

The Soviet chief's general tone was regarded a comparatively moderate toward the West. And he appeared to be saying, as Washington has contended in the past, that, if major cold war issues cannot be solved all at once, at least a start can be made by tackling smaller issues.

This led to increased anticipation of more East-West talks following the current Moscow negotiations.

"Have you tried this Yellowstone Whiskey they're talking about?"

One drink of Yellowstone and a friend tells a friend. That's how the word gets around.

Yellowstone is known as the Greatest American Whiskey. Probably got this handle because of its historic association with the Old West.

It's made by an exclusive process called Mellow-Mash. This gives Yellowstone a gentle lightness, yet a rich and most pleasing flavor—that's right, no bite!

There's something about Yellowstone that's causing a quiet move to this unusually fine Kentucky Bourbon.

HERE is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. THIS WAS THE CIVIL WAR

By MERTON T. AKERS
United Press International

John Hunt Morgan was a first-rate fighting man.

He was a brigadier general of cavalry in the Confederate Army of Tennessee commanded by Gen. Braxton Bragg. He fought his way farther north than any other Confederate commander in the Civil War, farther north than Gen. Robert E. Lee's Army of Northern Virginia penetrated in his second invasion which failed on Cemetery Ridge at Gettysburg.

Morgan was made of the same stuff as other famous Rebel cavalry raiders. He had much of Jeb Stuart's flair for the spectacular — plumed hats, high boots and flowing whiskers. He shared with Nathan Bedford Forrest the ability to ride fast, hit hard and baffle pursuit. Like John S. Mosby he could outguess Federal cavalry and raid almost at will.

All of these qualities, which made him the darling of the Confederacy for a time, he came by without formal military training. His only military service before the Civil War was a short stint in the Mexican War as a lieutenant.

He was born in Huntsville, Ala., June 1, 1825. By 1830 his father had moved to Lexington, Ky., where he worked for his father-in-law, John Hunt, a planter and horse race breeder who left a fortune of nearly a million dollars.

Morgan was reared in the Blue Grass tradition of fast horses, bourbon whisky, gaming and dueling. He attended Transylvania College in Lexington where President Jefferson Davis of the Confederacy had gone to school.

Near the end of his second year he was suspended from college, the reason not noted on the records. He never returned.

The start of the war found Morgan a substantial business man in Lexington and captain of a militia company.

When Kentucky proclaimed itself "neutral" after Fort Sumter, Morgan became impatient to start fighting but the time did not seen right and he kept drilling his company.

The day the first battle of Bull Run was fought — July 21, 1861 his invalid wife, Rebecca, died.

In September, Kentucky definitely having turned pro-Union, Morgan first tricked the enemy.

His company was pro-Confederate in that divided state. The pro-Union state authorities ordered him to turn in the company's arms. Morgan hid the arms and sent back packing cases full of stones instead.

The day after Federal troops occupied Lexington, Morgan loaded the guns on wagons, covered them with hay and drove them out of town under the noses of the Union troops.

Then with his company he marched south to a scouting and raiding career.

After the battle of Shiloh, Morgan made three raids from Tennessee into Kentucky, one in July '62, another in October of the same year and the third at New Year's time.

On the first raid with 800 troopers he ranged about 1,000 miles over Kentucky, captured and paroled 1,200 prisoners and destroyed mounds of supplies, losing about 100 men.

His second raid was smaller but this time he occupied his hometown of Lexington.

The third raid with about 4,000 men bagged 1,887 prisoners with the loss of only 2 killed and 24 wounded. This time he destroyed about $2 million worth of supplies.

He started his last and longest expedition — called the Ohio Raid — on July 2, 1863.

Bragg had authorized him to raid only in Kentucky to hamper operations of Union Maj. Gen. William S. Rosecrans who was threatening Chattanooga, Tenn. Bragg vetoed Morgan's plan to strike across the Ohio River into the untouched areas of Indiana and Ohio. But Morgan had other ideas.

With 2,460 men and four guns Morgan eluded 10,000 Federal cavalry who were supposed to be on guard against such raids, crossed at the Cumberland River at Burkesville, Ky., and headed north.

On July 4 he came to Tebbs Bend on the Green River and his first fight. He ran into a small but determined Union regiment of about 400 men, the 25th Michigan commanded by Col. Orlando H. Moore, another fighting man. The Michiganders were strongly entrenched.

In his best raiding style Morgan sent a flag of truce to Moore and demanded a surrender.

"If this were any other day, I might, but on the Fourth of July I must have a brush first," Moore replied.

Morgan assaulted Moore's intrenchments with his troopers dismounted. The 11th Kentucky was repulsed. The 5th Kentucky followed and suffered the same fate.

That was enough for Morgan. He pulled out his troops and rode around the Federals with 36 killed and about 50 wounded. The Federals lost 9 killed and 26 wounded, one of whom was Lizzie Compton, a Canadian girl who had been successfully masquerading until surgeon ripped open her shirt to probe a shoulder wound. Miss Compton recovered and was discharged with honor.

The next day Morgan fought the Federals again at Lebanon, Ky., where his brother, Tom, was killed. Here he took 400 prisoners and pushed north again to the Ohio River where he crossed on July 8 at Brandenburg, Ky., on two captured steamers.

A day later he was in Croydon, Ind., where he learned from an innkeeper's daughter that Lee had failed at Gettysburg and that Vicksburg had surrendered. This dashed Morgan's hopes that he might ride east into Pennsylvania and join with Lee. But he pushed on.

By this time all of Indiana and much of Ohio was confused and fearful. Troops were called from Michigan and Illinois and from as far away as Kansas. Indianapolis shored up its defenses.

Farmers hid their horses. Women and children took to the woods. Home Guards mustered at crossroads with shotguns and flintlocks. As often as they gathered they were brushed aside by Morgan's men but each skirmish slowed the raiders and speed was essential.

The flying columns rose into Salem, Ind., turned northeast and entered Ohio at Harrison above Cincinnati.

They never stopped as they skirted Cincinnati as that was Federal headquarters for the area and swarmed with troops. Margon's men rode 95 miles in 35 hours without rest or food stopping only to skirmish. Probably no cavalry ever rode that far in as short a time.

But Federal Cavalry, which had been riding hither and yon over three states with no success, began to close in as Morgan pushed east across Ohio parallel to the river, stopping only to remove barricades and fight out of Home Guard ambushcades.

Morgan headed for Bluffington Island in the Ohio below Portland, Ohio. Here he thought he could cross the river and return to the South.

But he was trapped on July 19 by Federal cavalry and gunboats. The battle went against him and about 700 of his men, under Col. Basil Duke, his brother-in-law, surrendered. About 300 escaped across the river.

As Duke fought the Federals Morgan cut his way out with about 1,000 men and rode north.

On Sunday July 19 the raid came to an end at Beaver Creek, Ohio, near New Lisbon. This was Morgan's farthest north point.

Two fresh Union cavalry regiments caught up with him. He now had only about 400 men and he surrendered without another fight.

Of the 2,460 men Morgan started with about 400 escaped. The rest were captured, killed, wounded, straggled or deserted. He had ridden about 1,000 miles and overall his men averaged about 20 hours per day in the saddle for the 25 days of the raid.

What did Morgan accomplish? Not much, militarily. He occupied some indefinite number of troops who might have reinforced Rosecrans. He burned railroad stations and bridges and frightened two states.

But that raid was spectacular. And that was what Morgan liked.

How To Keep Well

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

TIRED AND SLEEPY

The narcolepsy victim has an uncontrolable desire to sleep while reading, driving a car, or watching TV. A brief nap alleviates the feeling temporarily but shortly thereafter he drifts into drowsiness and another deep sleep. The condition is an obvious handicap and may be dangerous when the need comes on while driving a car or if the victim's work involves machinery.

Not everyone who always is tired has narcolepsy. A lazy thyroid gland leads to symptoms that are easily mistaken for narcolepsy, and vice versa. The glandular iisorder is more likely to produce fatigue than drowsiness. In addition, tests show a low metabolism and a low protein bound iodine level in the blood.

In contrast, there are no technical methods to diagnose narcolepsy. The physician suspects the disorder from the history of the patient's complaints and his response to drugs such as the amphetamines, which lead to improvement in more than 8 per cent of all narcolepsy victims.

The abnormality usually develops during adolescence or young adult life. Most of the day is spent in a state halfway between alterness and sleep. Unless treated, narcolepsy persists throughout life and handicaps the working man because he is tired, wornout, and subject to abrupt blackouts.

Other sleep disorders may coexist. Some have cataplexy, a puzzling condition in which the muscles become weak or temporarily paralyzed if the emotions are aroused as in a hearty laugh, surprise, or anger.

Others also develop sleep paralysis, a phenomenon that many normal persons experience at some period of life. This is the peculiar sensation of not being able to move when dozing off or awakening from a nap.

Chinese Reds Lash Czechs In Dispute

TOKYO (UPI) — Communist China Friday accused Communist Czechoslovakia of deliberately "aggravating" the ideological dispute splitting the Red camp by expelling three Red Chinese newsmen for distributing criticism of Russian foreign policy.

A Foreign Ministry statement likened the expulsions to Russia's ouster of five Chinese and said it was "painful" to see that "another incident undermining unity and creating a split should have occurred between Socialist countries."

Peking fired the blast at Prague even while Sino-Soviet negotiators met in Moscow in the apparently futile effort to resolve their differences.

Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev denounced the Chinese Communist war policy in a speech Friday which apparently sounded the death knell for the Sino-Soviet talks.

The Red Chinese statement was broadcast by the Communist New China News Agency (NCNA) and was monitored in Tokyo.

On July 8, it said, the Czech government "unreasonably" demanded the recall of three NCNA newsmen for distributing Peking's abusive attack on June 14 on the Soviet Communist party's foreign policies. The Soviet Union had expelled five Chinese diplomats and students earlier on the same grounds.

135 Girl Scouts Registered For Day Camp Meet

Some 135 Girl Scouts are registered to attend the second session of Day Camp, which runs July 23 through August 2 at Camp Pinewood near Sterlington. The entire Silver Waters Council area will be represented, as girls from Bastrop and Farmerville join those from Ouachita Parish for the two weeks.

Scouts will utilize their camping skills from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. each week day. Girls ranging in age from 8 to 14 will be placed in units in different parts of camp and follow a program suited to their age and interest.

The Brownies, aged 8-10, will taste of simple camp living and learn the "seven basic skills in the out-of-doors," said Miss Annie Klie, scout director.

Intermediate level scouts will have activities that count toward the earning of achievement badges in the out-of-door and nature fields.

All campers will have at least one cookout during the two weeks, and the intermediates will spend one night, sleeping in cabins or tents.

The oldest group participating will carry out a primitive camp situation, spending two nights in tents and cooking all their meals during this time.

Visitors's night on the second Friday will mark the end of this summer's day damp program.

Miss Klie also announced the following bus schedules for the coming session:

Bus No. 1 — West Monroe, Highland School — 7:45 a.m., Mitchell School — 7:55 a.m.

Bus No. 2 — Georgia Tucker School — 8:05 a.m., Lexington School — 8:15 a.m.

Bus No. 3 — Clara Hall School — 7:55, Sherrouse School — 8:15 a.m.

Individual campers will also be picked up along College Avenue and Forsythe Avenue, Miss Klie said.

Theft Of $100 Reported To Monroe Police

Local law enforcement agencies were kept busy Friday investigating numerous minor theft reports and one burglary of a house in Monroe.

Doris Jeanette Smith, of 305 Columbia Ave., Monroe, told officers that $100 was stolen from her house sometime during the night Thursday. She said $50 of the money was taken from a moneybag in her purse and the remaining $50 was taken from the pillow slip on her pillow on the bed. Also taken was a pistol and cigarette lighter.

Monroe police were also probing the theft of a .25-caliber pistol taken from the pocket of a car belonging to Mrs. Jeanette Herren, of Rt. 4, Box 112-A, West Monroe. She said the gun was taken while she was downtown shopping Thursday.

Meanwhile, the sheriff's department left for El Dorado, Ark., today to extradite a West Virginia woman charged with three counts of theft by check. Carolyn Sue Merritt, of Huntington, W. Va., was arrested for Ouachita sheriff's department authorities in El Dorado, Ark., and signed waivers today. She allegedly has written three $15 worthless checks to local Safeway Stores.

The sheriff's department reported the arrest of a Negro, Henry Lee Little, of 3511 Pippin St., for theft of a pistol from a car belonging to E. T. Larkin, Lakeshore, Monroe. Little was being held under a $750 bond. Sheriff's deputies also were holding a 46-year-old West Monroe man, D. A. Steele, for assault and disturbing the peace. He was arrested on a warrant sworn out by Jack Oglesbee, of Rt. 4, West Monroe, and held under bonds totaling $500.

Late Friday, Monroe police were probing several minor thefts. Alan Inman, of 718 McCain St., reported that three suits valued at around $190 were stolen from his car. The clothing was taken from the car while it was parked at the Twin City Shopping Center between 6:30 and 8 p.m. Also under investigation was the theft of a transistor radio from W. F. Golds' car, of Bonita. The vehicle was parked at the Ouachita Bank Parking Building when the theft occurred.

Monroe officers were also searching for the owner of a small coin purse, found on DeSiard Street by a local resident. The purse, containing a small amount of money, was turned over to police for safekeeping til the owner identifies the items and claims the purse.

The theft of around $60 worth of artificial bait from a boat belonging to E. C. Paulus, 2321 S. Grand St., was cleared by Monroe officers with the apprehension of a 15-year-old juvenile. The tackle was returned to the man, and the boy will be handled in juvenile court.

West Monroe authorities were probing the theft of a briefcase, taken from the Highland Bank on Cypress Street. The briefcase, property of Foremost Dairies, contained $6 in cash and $50 of worthless checks.

4 U.S. Weather Planes Forced Down In Israel

WASHINGTON (AP) — The State Department confirmed that Israeli aircraft forced four U.S. planes down in Israel Friday but said they were released when they were identified as weather observation planes.

Richard Phillips, the department's press officer, was asked about news dispatches reporting that jet fighters intercepted the U.S. aircraft and forced them to land at Lydda airport.

"My understanding is that these were weather planes of the (U.S.) Weather Bureau," Phillips said. He said the planes were on a flight from Dhahran in Saudi Arabia, which would take them over Israel.

New $10-Million Pulp Plant Set For Area Town

NATCHEZ, Miss. (Special) — A new $10 - million plant with a potential of employing 250 persons will be built here by Diamond National Corp. of New York, the Natchez - Adams County Chamber of Commerce reported.

The plant will produce moulded pulp packagings for items such as meat, produce and eggs.

Gov. Ross Barnett announced the plans following a luncheon at the governor's mansion in Jackson Thursday with local and state officials, chamber of commerce officers and members of the Natchez - Adams Council attending.

The council started several years ago, works in alliance with a state - wide "Balance Agriculture With Industry" program initiated under Gov. Hugh L. White's administration.

Richard J. Walters, president of Diamond Corp., also present at the Jackson meeting, outlined phases of plant construction.

First phases of the new factory to be located near Natchez-Adams County port will cost about $7-million, Walters said. He added that a $3-million phase would follow in about 18 months after the plant is in operation.

In the beginning about 110 persons will be employed with ultimate employment increasing to 200-250.

Acquisition was accomplished as a result of teamwork between state, city and county officials and business leaders, Oak Duke, president of the chamber, said.

Several trips were made to the East by Natchez Mayor John Nosser and A. C. Warren, president of the board of supervisors of the county, counterpart of Louisiana police juries, and Warren Farmer in an attempt to bring industry South.

Diamond Corp. makes matches, pulp packaging and lumber products at 46 plants.

Shortly before 6 p.m. a neighbor residing a mile-and-one-half away saw smoke billowing from the dwelling, but before aid could be summoned flames had razed the structure destroying everything within it. The house was partially covered by insurance.

Final Rodeo Act Set For Tonight

Tonight is the last chance for cowboys and cowgirls to show their rodeo skills in an attempt to win some of the $10,000 prize money offered in the RCA World Championship Rodeo, sponsored by the North Louisiana Shrine Club in the West Monroe Riding Club Arena on Harrell Road.

JKF Weekends At Cape Cod; Sees Christening

HYANNIS PORT, Mass. (AP)—President Kennedy arrived Friday for another weekend at the Summer White House on Cape Cod.

The presidential plane brought him in from Washington in time for the christening of his 11th and newest nephew, Christopher George Kennedy, eighth child of Atty. Gen. and Mrs. Robert F. Kennedy, who was born July 4th.

Richard Cardinal Cushing of Boston, longtime friend of the Kennedy family, was to officiate at the ceremony at St. Francis Xavier Catholic church in Hyannis.

President Kennedy's Air force jet landed at nearby Otis Air Force Base, and the chief executive made the shuttle trip to Hyannis Port by helicopter.

John Jr., the President's 2½ year old son, shared star billing.

About 15 minutes before the President landed, the boy—in the charte of a Secret Service agent—climbed into the waiting helicopter and sat in the pilot's lap. When the agent hurried him over to the big plane to meet his father, John broke away, ran to the ramp and on hands and knees climbed to the top and into the plane before the agent could catch up with him.

Hart Keeps Forefront In PGA Second Day

Big Horses Trail Young Assistant

DALLAS (UPI) — Jut-jawed Dick Hart, the young guy from nowhere, refused to wilt to Texas heat, rigid par or big time pressure Friday as he fired a one over par 37-35—72 to cling tenaciously to the second round lead in the PGA golf championship with a four under par 138.

The slender 27-year-old from Hinsdale, Ill., a mere assistant pro, grabbed the lead in the first round with a five under par 66. But, while all the big horses were running at him in 100 degree heat and nobody expected him to withstand the assault, he calmly clung to the head end while some of golf's greatest names were dropping.

Three tour players, former U.S. Open champion Jack Fleck, Jim Ferree and Don Fairfield all had to withdraw because of the heat; Arnold Palmer shot a disgusted 73 which left him far back at 147; Jack Nicklaus also shot a 73 for 142, and the closest challengers to the unknown Hart were three of the big ones — U.S. open champion Julius Boros, Champagne Tony Lema and Texan Shelley Mayfield.

Those three were stacked at 141, one stroke under par and three behind Hart, when Lema shot an even par 71 over the blistered Dac Course while Boros and Mayfield each posted a 72.

At 142

Behind them at even par 142 came Nicklaus, former champion Doug Ford with a 72 and Manuel De La Torre of Milwaukee with a 71.

Doug Sanders of the telephone booth backswing shot a 69 to jump into the 143 bracket along with former U.S. Open champion Gene Littler, Aussie Bruce Crampton and Phoenix Bill Johnston. At 144, were three-time champion Sam Snead with a 73, Mason Rudolph with a 75, Dow Finsterwald with a 72, Billy Maxwell with a 71 and Bob Goalby and Dan Sikes with 70's.

Former hockey star Bill Ezinicki and British Open champion Bob Charles moved into the 145 group with Dave Ragan and Dave Hill while at 146 were Billy Farrell, Tommy Jacobs, Paul Harney, Gardner Dickinson, Jim Ferrier and Dutch Harrison.

Palmer's 73—in what he called "my most disappointing year in golf" as it looked like he might not win one of the major events despite a new money winning record — put him at 147 along with former champion Jackie Burke and Frank Stranahan.

The Big Men

The two biggest men in the field, mountainous George Bayer with a 73 and six-foot-five John Barnum with a 74, were banked at 148 while at 149 came defending champion Gary Player with a 79 and Art Wall with a 76.

With a score of 151 required to survive the cut to the low 75 and ties for final rounds Saturday and Sunday, five former PGA champions and two former U.S. Open champions fell by the wayside.

The PGA kings were Wally Burkemo at 152, Lionel Hebert at 154, Chick Harbert at 155, Vic Ghezzi at 156 and Jim Turnesa at 157. Former Open winners who went to the sidelines were Lew Worsham at 152 and Ed Furgol at 154. Also out went Phil Rodgers, who last week lost the British Open playoff, with a 155.

All the old-timers thought that the virtually inexperienced young man from Salem, Mass., would wilt under either the heat or the pressure. But Hart played it with real heart.

He was iron steady racking up his pars through the first seven holes and wavered only on the eighth where he walloped his approach over the green, chipped back boldly four feet past and lipped the cup for a bogey.

Then, on the 10th, it looked like he might take the gas pipe as they had predicted when he caught the rough off the tee, dumped is approach into a trap and two putted after getting on for another bogey.

But they didn't count on his gameness. The curly-haired unknown whipped home a six foot birdie putt on the 13th—fought from the barbed wire rough for tough pars on the 15th and 17th and his cozy lead.

It was hot on the course and hotter in the hollows but it didn't bother a gallery of 8,500 which plodded the course as if it was the middle of Indian Summer and the Red Cross tent reported that not one single case of heat exhaustion was treated.

BANG OUT 16

Hitting Pirates Rout The Cubs

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Scoring behind pitcher Bob Friend for the first time in four games, the Pittsburgh Pirates banged out 16 hits Friday night and routed the Chicago Cubs 9-3.

Friend, who had pitched 30 innings without having a run scored in his behalf, made sure he would not be blanked again by driving in the first Pittsburgh run with a single in the third. Manny Mota, who had doubled, crossed the plate.

Friend fell behind 3-0 in the top of the third on Billy Williams' bases-loaded triple but the Pirates pecked away at Cub southpaw Dick Ellsworth, tying the score in the fifth and forging ahead, 4-3 in the sixth when Donn Clendenon tripled and scored on a single by Bob Bailey.

The Pirates put the game out of reach with a five-run assault against Don Elston and Jack Warner in the eighth. Seven singles and a sacrifice fly accounted for the runs.

McKinley In Finals Of Clay Court Play

RIVER FOREST, Ill. (AP)—Chuck McKinley, Wimbledon champion and Davis Cup star, advanced as expected Friday to the finals of the 53rd National Clay Courts Tennis Championships.

The 22-year-old McKinley scored a convincing 6-3, 6-3, 7-5 victory over unranked Herbert Fitzgibbon II of Garden City, N. Y. McKinley's victory set up a championship on Sunday against either R. Dennis Ralston of Bakersfield, Calif. or Ron Barnes of Brazil, who meet today.

In the women's division, petite Nancy Richey of Dallas, 20, advanced with a neat 6-1, 6-2 decision over rugged Judy Alvarez of Tampa, Fla. in a semifinal match.

The other women's semifinal between Victoria Palmer, 18, of Phoenix, Ariz. and Gwyneth Thomas, 22, of Shaker Heights, Ohio, also will be played today.

McKinley displayed little effort in disposing of the 21-year-old Princeton University senior, ranked 45th in the nation.

McKinley seemed to toy with his taller opponent in the final set by letting Fitzgibbon take a 4-3 advantage before winding up the match.

Miss Richey had an easy time defeating Miss Alvarez, a 20-year-old physical education major at Tampa University. Miss Alvarez had stunned the tennis world by conquering top-seeded Darlene Hard of Los Angeles in straight sets Thursday.

Miss Richey, schooled in tennis by her professional father, George Richey, for 12 years, made her heavier foe run from one end of the court to the other. Miss Richey's baseline shot tactics never allowed the Florida girl to get set.

Miss Hard and her doubles partner, Maria Bueno of Brazil, advanced to the semifinals with a 6-1, 6-0 victory over Roberta Alison of Alexandria City, Ala., and Stephanie Defina of Hollywood, Calif.

Rookie Big Bat As Reds Edge Slumping Giants

CINCINNATI (AP) — Rookie Tommy Harper drove in all five Cincinnati runs with two homers and a single and John Tsitouris pitched a four-hitter Friday night, leading the Reds to a 5-2 victory over San Francisco's slumping Giants.

Harper and his fellow rookie, Pete Rose, took care of the Reds' scoring. Harper tagged Billy Pierce for a homer in the first inning after a leadoff single by Rose, homered in the fifth off Pierce following a walk to Rose, then singled Rose home in the seventh after the Cincinnati second baseman had reached first on an error and stolen second.

Kuenn's first double, leading off the fourth, was the first hit off Tsitouris and led to the first San Tsitouris and led to the first San Francisco run. He came around on two ground outs. The Oiants nicked Tsitouris for their other run in the ninth on a hits batsman, Kuenn's second double and an infield out.

The loss was the ninth in their last 12 games for the Giants and dropped the defending National League champions into a fourth-place tie with the Reds.

Howard Slams Homers To Ice Dodgers Win

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Big Frank Howard cracked a pair of homers and scored three runs Friday night as the Los Angeles Dodgers continued their blistering pace by defeating the Milwaukee Braves 4-2.

In posting their 13th victory in their last 15 games, the Dodgers boosted their National League lead to 7½ games over the Chicago Cubs, who lost 9-4 to Pittsburgh. The Braves dropped into eighth place, behind Philadelphia.

Don Drysdale scattered six hits, struck out 11 and walked only one in beating Milwaukee for the first time in four decisions this year.

The fire-balling right-hander lost a shutout bid in the seventh when the Braves scored both their runs, one on Hank Aaron's 27th homer.

Howard, employed in right field against southpaw Bob Hendley, made the most of the opportunity. He hit Hendley's first pitch in the second for his 14th homer and then unloaded on the first delivery to him in the fourth for another. Seven of Howard's 15 homers have been against the Braves.

Third baseman Eddie Mathews' first error in 29 games, a double by Bill Skowron and a two-run single by Ken McMullen completed the Dodgers' scoring against reliever Frank Funk in the seventh.

Phillies Defeat Mets 2-1 With Sivers' Homer

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Roy Sivers hit a two-run homer with one out in the last of the ninth inning Friday night, lifting the Philadelphia Phillies to a 2-1 victory over the New York Mets and dealing Roger Craig his 14th straight pitching loss.

Sivers' homer was the 300th of his career and his ninth of the year. The blow followed a triple by Tony Gonzalez and was only the fifth hit of the game off Craig.

Craig now is 2-16. The right hander has not won since April 29.

Prior to Si Sivers' homer, the lone run of the game came in the fourth when Joe Christopher doubled, took third on a long fly and scored in a wild pitch by Cal McLish.

Reliever Jack Baldschun, who pitched the ninth, was credited with the victory, the fourth for the Phils and their seventh in their last nine games.

Before their final inning rally the Phillies managed only three singles off Craig and moved only one man past first base. Craig had them popping up and hitting into the ground all night and appeared ready to end his long losing streak when the roof caved in on him.

Fleck, who shot a first round 76 Thursday, went out in 42 on the first nine holes of the second round Friday, then pulled out, saying the intense, near 100 degree heat was too much for him.

Fleck, who now registers from Northridge, Calif., won the 1955 Open in a playoff with Ben Hogan.

THE SPORTS SCENE

with Keith Prince

The Houston Oilers, most popular football team among Louisiana fans excluding Louisiana State, have packed up gear and headed for the cool mountains of Colordo this summer to prepare for the upcoming AFL season.

Around 44 rookies and a sprinkling of veterans have been getting acquainted with the favorable temperature change and the ways of pro football for over a week. Friday the rest of the team members checked in and the AFL powerhouse is now rolling full force.

For some of the rookies the adjustment to professionalism comes easy, for some it is difficult, for others it is impossible.

It's hard to say what separates the men from the boys in professional athletics.

It would be safe to say ability is the prime factor to success in professional sports but one can't rate a pro by his ability alone. His attitude, his instincts and his determination also prevail.

But how do club owners and coaches find a quick way to weed out the unreliables? One way is through rookie camps. Houston has just completed its camp and some young hopefuls are gone. Others have faint hopes and still others are already being sought out for starring roles.

Houston has one objective in mind this year — to climb back onto the AFL throne which was taken away from it last December 23 by the Dallas Texans (now Kansas City Chiefs).

To do this, the Oilers must improve many things and iron out several weak spots. First, they must settle all family differences (such as Cannon vs. Ivy). The club must get leadership from its old warhorses, the veterans.

But also, the team must come up with some new blood, mainly playable and dependable rookies.

Let's take a look at several of the top rookies, some of the injury problems during the rookie camp and grab a quick glance at some of the progress reported.

The crop has given an early impression of being able to supply the needs of the Oilers.

Three of the top candidates for stardom this season include Danny Brabham, the former Louisiana resident who made a name for himself at Arkansas, Texas A&M linebacker Jerry Hopkins and Jerry Cook, halfback from Texas University.

Brabham, 225-pound fullback, is not on hand at the early camp. He will join the squad August 4 after playing in the Chicago All-Star game.

Hopkins and Cook have already been drawing rave notices from the Oiler coaches for their early showings. Cook was a third round draft choice and Hopkins a fourth.

Perhaps the most impressive all-round football player on the practice field has been Rice University's Randall Kerbow, signed as a free agent just a few weeks before camp opened.

Kerbow was the number one cog in Rice's 1962 club which had its ups and downs all year. The team never lived up to its advance billing although at times it showed flashes of brilliance such as in its meeting against LSU.

Randy was called on for many jobs at Rice and there seems to be no vast difference at the Oiler camp. He has already come to fill a half dozen jobs in the rookie practice sessions.

In addition to continuing his trade as a quarterback, Kerbow has served as a relief corner back with the defensive platoon, and when receivers became scarce because of minor injuries, the former Owl quarterback filled in at flanker back. In addition to these duties, he has been the best punter, PAT kicker and field goal kicker on hand.

Injuries are always a football problem whether in preseason drills or regular season play. The Oilers are no exception.

Louisiana Tech's Jerry Griffin, making a bid for an end position, has been one of the most snakepit rookies to come along in some time.

Jerry banged his head in a closet the first night of camp and had to have five stitches. But this was only a start. Shortly thereafter he jammed his finger catching a ball in practice and the following day suffered a pulled thigh muscle, all injuries coming before the squad had had its first minute of scrimmage.

But Griffin isn't alone. It's feared that number seven draft choice Johnny Baker, the Mississippi State end, may not be available for action due to a bad knee. Baker was tabbed for a spot in the All-Star game but failed the physical and is now in Houston undergoing examinations by Oiler physicians.

Bill Siekierski, a 230-pounder from Missouri, and flanker Homer Jones, the great sprinter from Texas Southern, were both turned down at the physical examination because of knee trouble. Siekierski was ticked for a shot at the job left vacant by the absence of offensive captain and left tackle Al Jamison who underwent spinal surgery in the off-season.

Of course, its still early and nothing definite can be told at this time. But one thing is for sure — several of these young men must come through if Houston hopes to climb back on top of the American Football League.

Kennedy And His Cubs

Many baseball followers, writers and fans, are still calling the Chicago Cubs the "surprise team" of the National League this year. Now we're not going to be crazy enough to say we predicted they would be in second place at this point in the season but neither can we say it is a great shock that they are in the first division.

Long a dweller in the bottom half of the standings, the Cubs have matured this season under new "head coach" Bob Kennedy.

When Chicago brought Kennedy up from his post in Salt Lake City in a winter deal nearly everyone was having a good horse laugh on the Cubs. After all who had ever heard of having a head coach and athletic director in baseball. And nobody fixes notebooks on fundamental play situations and passes them out to every club in the organization, whether it be the major league team or its class D affiliation.

But the ex-air force man had heard of such a system and he used it. Now people are laughing with Kennedy instead of at him.

Although relatively new at the managerial slot, Kennedy seems as relaxed as an old shoe. "I like the job," he said, laughing, last week. "Why shouldn't I? These players are giving me everything they've got."

And true it is.

The Cubs are having no personnel problems this year. The men are doing their jojb, enjoying their job and winning at their job.

Every player, to a man, claims Kennedy is the best possible of managers, reports sports writer Jerome Holtzman in the Sporting News.

Said Ron Santo, the Cubs' star young third baseman: "If a guy can't play for Bob Kennedy, he can't play for anyone."

It's not because Bob Kennedy is a baseball genius that the Cubs are standing alone in second place. And it's not entirely because he has brought new ideas and systems into professional baseball. But much of Chicago's success has come because Kennedy knows how to handle men.

He doesn't say much and isn't one to overmanage. Instead, he lets the players and their deeds on the field do the telling.

The rise has been no miracle story. Naturally, the trades which Chicago made this year, acquiring McDaniel and Jackson from the Cardinals, have helped tremendously.

But most of the same players are there again this season. Ron Santo, Ernie Banks, Ken Hubbs — they've all been through the long major league season with Chicago before.

But one man is new. He is Bob Kennedy. And since his arrival, the entire Chicago Cubs team is new. It's a winner now.

Americans In Russia

American Track and Field stars training for the meet with the Russians in Moscow are finding a scarcity of things they take for granted back home.

For example, take this story from the Associated Press:

"About 40 of the members descended on an American - style snack bar at the U.S. Embassy Wednesday and devoured a month's supply of hamburgers and milk.

"We're dying for milk," said steeplechase runner Vic Zwolak of Philadelphia. "'Otherwise everything is fine.

"'I told Pennel (pole vaulter John Pennel from Northeast State) I'd give my track shoes for a quart of milk. He said he'd give his shoes for a hamburger and throw in his fiber glass pole for the ketchup and mustard.'"

Losers Will Fight On T.V. In Miami

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Two recently deposed world boxing champions — Luis Rodriguez and Denny Moyer—were signed Friday for a 10-round, nationally televised fight Aug. 17 at Miami Beach Convention Hall.

Rodriguez, a product of Havana who lives in Miami, lost his welterweight title to Emile Griffith on a split decision in New York last month.

Moyer, from Portland, Ore., has lost twice this year—both times to Ralph Dupas and both times with the junior middleweight crown at stake.

The bout will be on the opening day of the World Boxing Association convention at Miami Beach.

Mary Mills Has Lead Women's

CINCINNATI (UPI) — Perky Mary Mills, a long slugger from Gulf Hill, Miss., fired a record-tying 70 Friday to take a commanding three-stroke lead in the second round of the U.S. Women's Open Golf championship.

Miss Mills, a 145-pound belter, compiled a two-day 141 total to break by one stroke the 36-hole Women's Open record set by Mickey Wright of Dallas in 1960. Miss Mills also tied the course record of '70, set by Carole Mann of Atlanta in the 1960 Trans-Mississippi tournament at Kenwood Country Club.

Shooting almost flawless golf in the second, round of 18 holes, the 23-year-old, Miss Mills led the field of 40 qualifiers going into Saturday's gruelling 36 holes.

In second place, trying for her third open win, was veteran Louise Suggs, of Delray Beach, Fla., who carded identical 72s on both rounds for her 144 total.

Five strokes back was Clifford Ann Creed of Alexandria, La., who was co-leader with Miss Mills at the end of the first round, double-bogeyed on the par four second hole Friday and finished with an even-par 71-75—146.

A field of 81 contestants was trimmed to 33 professionals and seven amateurs who survived the cut-off at 159 or under. Just missing a. chance at the final rounds was former tennis champion Althea Gibson of New York, who finished with a 78-82—160.

Further back among the qualifiers but apparently out of the running were four-time Open winner Betsy Rawls of Spartanburg, S.C., with a 152 total; defending champion Murle Lindstrom of Sutton, Mass., with a 158 and former Open winner Kathy Cornelius of Scottsdale, Ariz., with 156.

The 40 qualifiers tee off Saturday for the final 36 holes. If there is a tie for first place, the playoff will take place Sunday.

Tigers Whip Angels 10-5 On Late Rally

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Pinch hitter Whitey Herzog's two-run double in the eighth inning was the key blow as the Detroit Tigers went on a late scoring spree and whipped the Los Angeles Angels 10-5 Friday night.

Rocky Colavito triggered the Tiger comeback with a leadoff homer in the eighth, then after a double by Bill Bruton and a two-out walk to Bill Freehan, Herzog smacked his line drive double off loser Art Fowler for a 6-5 Detroit lead.

The Tigers resumed their attack in the ninth, raking Fowler and Julio Navarro for four more runs.

Norm Cash's single with the bases loaded, a squeeze bunt by Bubba Phillips and Freehan's single drove in the four insurance runs in the ninth.

The Tigers combed five Los Angeles pitchers for 14 hits.

Willie Smith, Detroit southpaw, registered his first major league victory.

Don Mossi protected the rookie's decision by setting the Angels down in order the final two innings.

TIP COLTS, 7-2

Cards Tie Cubs For Second Spot

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Ron Taylor's strong relief pitching carried St. Louis to a 7-2 victory over the Houston Colts Friday night and moved the Cardinals into a virtual tie with the Chicago Cubs for second place in the National League race.

Taylor, who boosted his record to 5-4, relieved Ernie Broglio with a run in, runners on second and third and one out in the top of the third. He got out of that inning without further damage and held the Colts to four singles and no runs the rest of the way.

Houston, dropping its fourth straight, had jumped ahead in the first on consecutive inning-opening hits by Al Spangler, Johnny Temple and Pete Runnels. Bill White balanced that with a 405-foot homer in the bottom of the first.

ROOSEVELT TROT

Even Money Is On Su Mac Lad

WESTBURY, N.Y. (AP)—All the talk regarding the fifth Roosevelt International Trot centers about Su Mac Lad, the great American horse who won the race in 1961 and is the even money favorite to repeat Saturday night at Roosevelt Raceway.

A crowd of 50,000 is expected to watch seven star trotters from six countries battle over the 1¼-mile route for first prize of $25,000 from the $50,000 purse.

In 1959, few in the crowd gave the foreign horses much chance against the U.S. representative, Trader Horn, so it was something of a shock when France's Jamin beat Italy's Tornese for the top prize. Trader Horn finished third.

Another French horse, Martini II, is given the best chance of the foreigners this time, The 7-year-old gelding, a son of Dubonnet out of the mare Gipsy, has post No. 5 and is fourth choice at 8-1.

Martini, owned by M. J. Duterte, an Alliers produce merchant, has won 17 of 27 starts this season, and will be driven by German-born Gerhard Kruger. Pierre Lebarbenchon is the regular driver and trainer of the 7-year-old gelding, but Kruger was selected to handle Martini at Roosevelt because of his experience in American racing. The 38-year-old Kruger now drives for the huge French stable trained by Jonel Chyriacos.

Kruger finished fifth with the German horse Ivacourt in the 1959 race, won the Transoceanic last month at a private track near Paris.

Stanley Dancer, 36, who won with Su Mac Lad two years ago, will handle the 9-year-old favorite for Irving W. Berkemeyer of New Milford, N.J. They drew post three.

Sprite Rodney, a 4-year-old mare owned by Mel and Tom Eaton of Lexington, Ky., is second choice at 3-1, with Frank Ervin in the sulky. Sprite Rodeny qualified by finishing second to Su Mac Lad last week in the $50,000 American Trotting Championship.

Third choice at 6-1 is Canada's Tie Silk, who upset Su Mac Lad in the 1962 International with a 2:35 1-5 clocking, just one fifth slower than the International record set by Holland's Hairos II, who won in 1960. Frank Baise drives Tie Silk for Adrien and Gerard Miron of Montreal.

Theo Messidor is the Dutch challenger this year, and is 10-1 along with When, a New Zealand mare. Rounding out the field is Italy's Calcante, longest priced horse in the field at 15-1.

Denver Rookies Defeat Houston With Late Tally

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (UPI) — The Denver Broncos used a recovered fumble in the third quarter and a well-aimed field goal in the final period to edge the Houston Oilers 17-14 in an American Football League rookie exhibition game here Thursday.

The Broncos trailed by eight points at halftime, but recovered a Houston fumble in the third period and turned it into a score on a swing pass from Teddy Woods to Bob Blakley. Woods then ran for the two-point conversion to knot the score.

Denver then pleased the 6,500 fans at Washburn stadium with a field goal in the last three minutes that gave them the victory.

Both coaches were well pleased with the performances of their rookie crop and said veteran players might have a tough time in the coming weeks trying to hold their positions.

Houston is holding its pre-season training camp here, with the Denver club at Fort Collins, Colorado.

FULL OF POTATO SALAD

Americans Prepared For Russians Today

MOSCOW (AP)—Bursting with confidence, potato salad and Finnish milk, the United States track and field team opens its annual two-day meet against the Soviet Union here Saturday, with an expected 100,000 in giant Lenin Stadium.

All the Americans are fit except ace distance man Jim Beatty, favored to win the 5,000, who went back on the question mark list Friday.

'I'll warm up before the race," Beatty said. "If I can run, I'll run. I came a long way for this meet." Beatty has a sore right leg muscle, which kicked up again Wednesday. He hoped rest would heal it.

However, he doesn't run until late Sunday afternoon. Saturday's program starts at 5:15 p.m. Moscow time (8:15 a.m., EST) and Sunday's card opens an hour earlier.

The American men's team was primed for its fifth straight victory and its biggest margin ever in the series. Last year at Palo Alto they won 128-107.

"They have two chances to beat us," says Gene Johnson of Santa Clara, Calif., "slim and none."

Yankee girls are aiming for their best showing, although they have never even approached the Russian girls in the four previous meets.

U.S. Coach Payton Jordan of Stanford is gunning for the first American edge ever in combined totals of men's and women's events, which is the way the Russians score it.

The Russians are ready, too. "We have a few surprises," said Soviet Coach Gaurill Korobkov.

These events will be contested Saturday by the men:

Pole vault, 100 meters, 110-meter hurdles, 20,000-meter walk, 10,000 meters, broad jump, shot put, hammer throw, 400 and 800 meters, plus half the decathlon events and the 400 meter relay.

The womens javelin, high jump, 100 meters, discus and 400-meter relay also are set for Saturday.

HARD-HITTING Eddie Kincaid will be behind the plate Sunday afternoon when the Rayville Larks host a strong semi-pro team from Hollandale, Miss. Kincaid an All-Gulf States Conference catcher for Northeast State in his freshman year last spring, is batting over .300 for the Hollandale nine.

Surging Solons Clip Twins On Lock's Single

MINNEAPOLIS-ST. PAUL (AP)—Don Lock's two-out single in the 13th inning drove in the winning run Friday night as the suddenly-surging Washington Senators outlasted Minnesota 6-5.

Lock also hit a homer for the Senators' first run, then singled in another run and scored in the eighth when the Senators rallied for four runs and a 5-5 tie.

It was the 11th victory in 14 games for the Senators, last-place club in the American League.

Zoilo Versalles' throwing error on Ken Retzer's grounder set it up for the Senators' winner. Retzer went to second on an infield out and scored on Lock's single to right.

Lefty Claude Osteen, Washington's fifth pitcher, who came on in the 12th, had to fight off a Minnesota rally in the bottom of the 13th to gain credit for his fourth victory in 10 decisions.

Rich Rollins had a solo homer and Harmon Killebrew a two-run blast, the 200th homer of his major league career, for the Twins.

THE TRAINER OBJECTS

Gloves Hassle Flares Up In Liston-Patterson Fight

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—A minor hassle involving the gloves to be used Monday night when Sonny Liston defends the heavyweight title against ex - champ Floyd Patterson flared up during Friday's meeting of the Nevada State Athletic Commission.

Dan Florio, Patterson's chief trainer, objected when he learned belatedly that the fighters would be able to wear any make of glove they wished as long as they weighed the required eight ounces.

Liston planned to use the foam rubber Frager gloves and Patterson expected to use the horse hair-packed Everlast gloves that were used in their first fight last Sept. 25 at Chicago.

"This is the first time I ever heard of fighters being allowed to use different make of gloves in a title fight," said the veteran trainer. Informed that Patterson had agreed to this in the contract, Florio said, "He probably didn't read it and thought everything was all right."

This prompted commission chairman John Gammick of Elko, Nev., to ask, "Does he sign blank checks."

The net outcome was that Florio said, "We'll use the Frager gloves, too."

Original sets of the Frager gloves did not meet the weight requirements but net sets are en roue from Chicago.

"I don't care if they wear golf gloves," said Jack Nilon, manager of Liston, the 4-1 favorite.

If the Chicago-made gloves add anything to a fighter's punch, Patterson could be in trouble. Using the other make Liston belted him out in two minutes and six seconds of the first round last Sept. 25.

If Patterson also wants to use them it could be an indication that he expects to come out swinging, instead of adopting a more cautious approach. After the incident of the beard and mustache after last year's crushing defeat, Floyd may be determined to win big or go out on his shield.

The commission announced that the automatic eight-could will be used in the title fight, a ruling that might help Patterson, who is usually down even in winning fights. Liston claims he never has been down. In any event, he definitely never has been knocked out while winning 34 of 35 pro fights, his last 27 in a row.

While they were arguing about gloves, the foul rule and other moot points, Patterson was sleeping at his desert retreat six miles away from the gambling mills after doing 3½ miles on the road in early morning before the thermometor soared around the 105 mark.

Liston who also had finished his week, confined himself to road work and a few loosening up exercises. The closed circuit people, SportsVision, Inc. disclosed they had insured Liston for $105,000 to assure his appearance.

Florio represented Patterson at the commission meeting although Cus D'Amato, his manager, also sat in as an unofficial observer. D'Amato planned to get a second's license but it was not certain whether he would work in the corner. Nilon spoke for Liston.

Jim Deskin, executive secretary of the commission, told newsmen that there positively was no rematch agreement this time, either oral or written. Both fighters had been requested to sign papers that there was no further obligation for future bouts.

Mother Of Four Tells Story Of Kidnap Terror

THOUSAND OAKS, Calif. (UPI) — Police Friday investigated the harrowing story of a 28-year-old mother of four who said she was held captive in a mountain cabin for four days by a kidnapper who tied her to a bed.

Mrs. Sylvia May Wilson, estranged from her husband, Robert, was discovered by motorists on U.S. 101 near Decker Road at the southern tip of the Ventura-Los Angeles County line in the San Fernando Valley. Her hands were bound with tape, and she appeared suffering from hysteria.

Mrs. Wilson said she was raped once by the tall, silent kidnapper who abducted her from a parking lot in Reseda, Calif., last Monday.

She accompanied two West Valley detectives, Sgt. O. D. DeWyk and Lynn Selby, to the Decker Canyon area where she was released Thursday. In that way, officers hoped to locate the cabin she described.

DeWyk said the stories she gave Ventura deputies and police were essentially the same recapitulation of kidnap and attack.

Mrs. Wilson said after being knocked unconscious in the parking lot Monday, she was blindfolded, gagged and bound.

Once inside the cabin, she said, the kidnapper tied her spread-eagle to a bed. She said he raped her the next day.

Mrs. Wilson said she was given water only twice and a few rolls to eat during the four-day period.

She described her assailant as about 6 feet, 3 inches, and 240 pounds. She said he was about 40 and had bloodshot eyes.

She told of "long, very cold nights while I lay nude tied to the bed."

Mrs. Wilson's four children range from 2 to 9 years.

Girl, 19, Dies; Wounded In Pistol Mishap

SHREVEPORT, La. (AP) —A 19-year-old girl, wounded in a pistol accident, died at a hospital here Friday. She was Ina Lynn Riche of Alexandria, La.

Miss Riche was flown to a hospital here in an England Air Force Base C-123 cargo plane for emergency surgery. The .22 bullet hit her in the left temple.

Police said the accident happened when Miss Riche visited a friend's home in an Alexandria suburb. Officers said the gun fired as it was being pulled from under a mattress.

COMPLAINT

MOSCOW (UPI) — Western correspondents complained to Premier Nikita Khrushchev at a reception here Friday night that it was difficult to obtain news of the current Soviet-Chinese ideological negotiations in Moscow.

Khrushchev retorted: "Any fool could be a journalist if the job were not difficult."

New York Police Arrest 44 More In Racial Striff

NEW YORK (AP) — Police arrested 44 more civil rights demonstrators — 17 children among them — for blocking the entrance to a state hospital construction site in Brooklyn Friday and refusing to move.

It was the second mass arrest there this week.

The white and Negro pickets carried signs protesting discrimination by building trades unions and demanding more jobs for Negroes and Puerto Ricans.

Across town in Manhattan, Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller told a news conference—held in a hotel because of a sit-in demonstration in his press room—that New York law well establishes the principle of equal opportunity.

When asked about the demands of some civil rights groups that a set percentage of construction jobs be assigned to nonwhites, Rockefeller said the "quota concept" was both impossible and against the law.

Mayor Robert F. Wagner, meanwhile, held a closed-door conference at City Hall with leaders of several major civil rights groups, a meeting described as "a good first step" in providing more jobs. Outside Wagner's office, a 10-day-old sit-in was in progress.

And white students, in a reverse demonstration, picketed the Broadway restaurant of a chain they accused of discriminating against whites in employment.

The Brooklyn arrests occurred in two waves as pickets twice blocked the entrance of work trucks at the Downstate Medical Center construction—lying, sitting and standing in the paths of the heavy vehicles.

Purposely limp, several of the adults sang "We Shall Not be Moved" as members of a 75-man police detail carried them to patrol wagons. The adults were charged with disorderly conduct, as were the 42 demonstrators—including 14 Negro ministers—arrested at the site Monday.

Officers placed the children in unmarked patrol cars, took them in to get their names for juvenile authorities and then released them.

Two Negro ministers, the Rev. Melvin Williams of Bethany Methodist Church in Brooklyn and the Rev. Robert Kinloch, pastor of a Baptist church inthe Bronx, led the peaceful picketing.

Only when the demonstrators blocked access to the hospital did police move in for arrests. Williams was among those taken but Kinloch, who had been among those starting the Rockefeller office sit-in nine days ago,was not arrested.

Negro civil rights leaders said Mayor Wagner promised that the city would immediately investigate complaints of union discrimination, based upon the findings of a panel he had named to look into the situation.

"Now we are getting action," said Roy Wilkins, executive secretary of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, as he emerged from the City Hall conference. "That is good and welcome. We want more of it."

James Farmer, national director of the Congress of Racial Equality, said "we want to see the faces" of more Negroes on the job. But he described the conference as "a good first step."

SHELL VASES

Sea shells make wonderful containers for summer flowers. If you are planning a trip to the seashore, collect some of the more attractive shells, suggests the Society of American Florists. Fill them with water to make sure they won't leak. Seal any holes with paraffin. Then insert into each shell a pre-saturated foam flower holder cut a little smaller than the shell, insert flower stems in the holder, and add water, SAF advises.

DINNER

Home demonstration agents from the Northern district of the agriculture Extension Service honored Miss Eunyce Howard earlier with a surprise dinner party at Hugo's in Lake Providence.

The hostesses presented the honoree and her mother, Mrs. R. K. Howard, with lovely white carnation corsages.

As a token of friendships made through the years of association with Miss Howard, the hostesses presented her with a money tree. A sand blated manzanita branch, placed in a yellow pottery bowl tied with yellow and white ribbon, was decorated with crisp, new dollar bills rolled tightly and tied with ribbon to the branches. Strips of pennies, nickels, dimes and quarters, held together with strips of cellophane, cascaded from the tree, while silver dollars filled the pot at the base.

Each lady present wrote suggestions for ways to use "retirement time," and presented them to the honoree.

HINTS FROM HELOISE

Lettuce Needs Moisture To Stay Fresh And Crisp

By HELOISE CRUSE

Dear Heloise:

As a result of research, the United States Department of Agriculture recommends the best storage of lettuce is at 32 to 35 degrees F: However, temperatures of 40 to 50 degrees F will retard the development of decay in lettuce for two to three days.

The Department states that two to three days is the extent of the high quality life of lettuce. If head lettuce is to be stored several days, it should not be cored until the day it is to be used.

Just rinse the lettuce lightly, drain thoroughly, and store immediately in crisping pans or wrapped in foil, transparent film wrap, film bags, or a damp tea towel.

If it is planned to use the lettuce within a day or two, core and store as stated above, or place (core side down) on paper towels in covered container in refrigerator. To keep fresh and crisp, lettuce needs moisture.

FROM HELOISE'S KITCHEN

If you have one of those plastic-type measuring cups where the marks are very hard to see get out that red bottle of fingernail polish, gals.

On the one - fourth cup mark put one red dot. On the half-cup mark put two red dots. On the three - fourths cup mark put a little line of dots. On the top measure, which says one cup, draw a little line about an inch long.

Sure saves me lots of time.

Heloise

Dear Heloise:

Here is an idea that we have used and it really works for us.

The next time you try to remove the bolt from your license plate or any bolt - and - nut arrangement, and you find it rusted . . . just take a carbonated beverage and pour it on the rusted nut. You will be able to work the screw loose in just a few minutes.

F.D.

I have no rusted bolts and nuts so I can't test this, but many letters have come in saying "it's so."

Do let us know how you fare. Nothing to lose except a few swallows of pop!

Dear Heloise:

I dyed a couple of old faded bathmats to match my kitchen decor. I use them for kitchen rugs. I keep one rug in front of the back door and one I keep in the front of the kitchen sink all the time and it looks pretty too.

When I cook I scoot the rug over in front of the stove. This is wonderful to catch the grease, spatters and cooking spills especially from frying and drips from the broiler.

When I defrost my refrigerator I scoot the same rug in front of it until the entire process is completed and the refrigerator is all cleaned and turned on again. Save more cleaning of floors later.

Then the rug is scooted back to its original place in front of my sink because this is where I seem to find it is most needed. It certainly saves scrubbing and waxing my floors so often.

Lilyan Roche

Dear Heloise:

Children love to play in water but hate to hang up their wet bathing suits and towels.

I solved this problem by tying spring - type clothes pins to a string and then tying the string onto the clothes line itself within easy reach of the children. This way, they can hang up their own suits.

To help form the habit, I clipped their ice cream money into the clothes pins. How does it work? It's wonderful!

Dear Heloise:

Here's a tip for vacations at the seashore when beds and pillows get a damp and musty odor.

Take your favorite sweet-smelling talcum with you and sprinkle liberally over bare mattresses and pillows. Rub it in well, then cover with sheets and pillowcases. It's heavenly! This is also excellent for sick rooms.

Why Grow Old

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

It seems to me that we do not hear so much about facial masks today as we once did. However, they are still most beneficial. They have a tendency to refine the complexion and they are wonderful pickups after a difficult day and before an evening of fun. You can make your own if you wish.

The Epsom salt facial is a great refresher at the end of the day. It makes your skin glow. Use two tablespoons of Epsom salts to one pint of water. Place two bowls in front of you. Put hot water in one and icy cold water in the other. Put the salts in each bowl and dissolve it.

Wring a towel out in the hot water and hold the towel to your face and neck for a few minutes. Repeat this four or five times. Now wring a towel out of the ice water and hold to the face and neck. Do this four or five times. Repeat the whole procedure several times. Rinse the face well and apply cold cream.

Another good pack is made of fuller's earth. This is thought to be corrective to large pores. Buy some fuller's earth at a drugstore. Mix equal parts of peroxide and witch hazel and add this to one-fourth pound of fuller's earth. Use enough liquid to make the mixture smooth and easy to apply to the face. Cleanse your face first and then apply the pack. Let it dry and then rinse it off. Apply cream afterwards.

If you would like to have my free leaflet "Reconditioning at Home," which gives you some more recipes for bleaches and cream, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 49 to Josephine Lowman in care of News-Star.

OES District 4 Inspection Held In Farmerville

The official Inspection of District No. 4, O. E. S., was held Saturday night in the Farmerville high school gymnasium which was transformed into a magnificient setting with a color scheme of shades of purple, silver, white and gold.

Baskets of white gladioli stood on each side of the steps to the stage.

The register table at the entrance was decorated with a large golden heart on which rested a small cherub.

As members and guests registered in books of the D. D. GM. and W. G. M., they were presented colorful programs decorated with an Eastern Star and Masonic emblem.

Inside a large pool was seen, centered with a fountain holding a large bisque cherub. Flowers in shades of purple floated on the water. Towering over this was a trellis covered with simulated orchids and vines.

The program area of the floor was defined by 16 white columns wrapped with gold streamers. Minature manzanita trees decorated with orchids topped the pillars and Smilax vine draped from one pillar to the other. Inside the columns was placed a gold colored walk. Behind each Star Point chair was found a golden harp.

The meeting was called to order by Mrs. Sadie Farrar, D. D. GM. Escorting the W. G. M., Mrs. Delaine R. Able, was Woodrow A. Downs, Grand Senior Warden of the Grand Lodge of Louisiana; and the W. G. P., Mr. Marvin G. Wilder, was escorted by Russell Adams, Worshipful Master of the local Masonic Lodge, into the room and to the stage. They were followed by the other Grand Officers in two lines, each escorted by 3 Masons in a triangler formation.

The theme of the program honoring the W. G. M., W. G. P. and Grand Supervisor was based on the Masonic Heritage. The Star Point stations were filled by the Worthy Matrons of the District.

The Official Inspection was declared opened by the D. D. G. M., Mrs. Sadie Farrar. The different phases of the work was exemplified by the Chapters in the District - Magi no. 85; Crescent no. 64; Dubach no. 215; Union no. 29; Mary S. Herring no. 134 and Farmerville no. 207.

The reception table, covered in orchid overlaid with a full net skirt and edged with a vine of miniature orchids, was centered with twin open hearts covered with tiny orchids and from each suspended an Eastern Star and Masonic emblem. On the base lay a small cherub. Approximately 250 guests attended.

A Banquet held at the American Legion Dining Hall preceded the inspection with Mrs. Sadie Farrar, D. D. G. M. presiding as toastmistress.

Russell Adams, Mayor pro-tem, welcomed all to the city and presented the Eastern Star Grand Chapter leaders citizenship certificates and gold key chains.

YOUR PROBLEMS

Throw The Pin Away It's Not Evidence!

By ANN LANDERS

DEAR ABBY: I found a hairpin in my husband's shirt pocket and I don't own a hairpin. I asked him how it got there and he swore up and down he didn't know. Now I know my husband and I can tell if he's lying by looking at his mouth. Well, his mouth betrayed him and I am sure he was lying to me about that hairpin. I can't prove anything. What would you do if you were me? I am 62 and he is 69.

NOT STUPID

DEAR NOT: If I were you I'd throw the hairpin away and forget it.

DEAR ABBY: Tell "His Mother", whose son had to repeat the fifth grade, that I know how she feels because it happened to my boy years ago. And it was the best thing that ever happened to him, as he received a good grounding in fundamentals that have held him in good stead ever since. As his teacher told us, "If he is not able to keep up with the class and do the work, think how much harder it will be later on." He quickly adjusted to being left behind by his contemporaries, and it was never harmful to him psychologically or otherwise. It was a blow to his parent's pride. Don't blame the teacher. She's doing what is best for him. Someday you will be thankful.

MRS. S.

CONFIDENTIAL TO G.G.: For some valuable insight into a young adult's character, take notice of how he (or she) treats his parents. And for some additional valuable insight notice how he (or she) treats the grandparents.

DEAR ABBY: My husband has been a minister for many years, and we have faced this problem over and over. It's the misconstrued picture of the pastor's work. Time and again I've heard children go uncorrected when they say, in the presence of their parents, "The preacher doesn't have to work." Adults make remarks about how hard it must be to have my husband underfoot all day. Or how nice it is that he has to work only on Sundays. Or he can sleep as late as he wants to in the mornings. Abby, my husband gets up at 6:30 A.M. and retires between 11 o'clock and midnight every night. His days (and many evenings) are filled with meetings, conferences, church administration business, fund raising, counseling parents of children in trouble, mediating in family and marital quarrels, preparing sermons and speeches for community and civic affairs. He puts in hours and does work that would kill off a young man. Some people think that unless a man works behind a desk eight hours a day, or goes to a factory and punches a clock, he isn't really "working". I love our people, Abby, and don't want to hurt them, but I do wish they had a better understanding of the minister's work. Can you help me?

PASTOR'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: I hope I have.

What's on your mind? For a personal reply, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Abby, Box 3365, Beverly Hills, Clif.

White House Frowns On Ban On Magazines

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The White House, sometimes the target of charges of news censorship, made it clear Friday it frowns on any censorship of magazines that may be sold in government buildings.

The issue arose from a nonrescinded order by a regional office of the General Services Administration (GSA) which had the effect of banning many magazines from federal building newsstands in California, Nevada and Hawaii.

The regional GSA office in San Francisco announced Thursday that its list of 199 "approved" magazines had been revoked because it caused too much "confusion." But it appeared White House disapproval of such restrictions might have been at least party responsible.

Press Secretary Pierre Salinger said Friday, in response to questions, that he had discussed the matter of the controversial list last week with GSA officials. He said he informed the agency that the White House felt there should be no such listing for newsstands in any federal building.

Salinger said the GSA officials told him that the order was not aimed at censorship but was intended to keep so-called "girlie" magazines off newsstands. However, the "approved" list did not include a number of leading literary, business, political and religious publications.

Protests against the order were made by the American Civil Liberties Union, Rep. John F. Shelley, D-Calif., and others.

EBR Takes Steps

BATON ROUGE (AP) — The East Baton Rouge Parish school board which voted to comply with a federal court order to desegregate the 12th grade this fall prepared its first steps Friday.

One of U. S. Dist. Judge E. Gordon West's directions was that preparations begin Friday for mailing notices to 12th grade students that they could apply for transfers.

The court's formal order was issued Thursday, accepting in general what the school board had proposed—a stairstep plan beginning with the 12th grade and affecting one grade lower each year.

Students in the 12th grade must be notified that from July 29-Aug. 7, regardless of race, they can apply for transfer to any school of their choice.

Chile Reds Back Soviets

SANTIAGO, Chile (UPI)— The Communist party of Chile, proportionately the most powerful in South America, has come out in support of Moscow in the ideological dispute with Peking.

"The latest Chinese documents (the 25 points denouncing Moscow's peaceful coexistence line) go much beyond the tolerable limits of a fraternal discussion," the Communist organ Siglo said.

The Chinese position paper was widely distributed here in Spanish pamphlets by the Communist New China news agency.

Luxuries For Pets Are Seen At Show

By ROBERT M. KALB
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—In this year of the cosmonauts and astronauts came also cosmetics for poodles, stuffed alligators and split-level bird houses.

These and sundry luxuries for pet fanciers could be seen, handled, admired and priced Friday at the three-day fifth national trade show of the American Pet Products Manufacturing Association.

Stuffed alligators, imported from South America, and retailing for 52 cents each for the 15-to-21 inch size to $1.33 for a 42-inch monster, seemed a bargain item. Decorative on a cocktail table, they require no further feeding and only occasional dusting.

For the sophisticated hound and houndess, there is a line of toiletries including two parfums, one called arf-peggio; creme shampoo, tinted rinse, mascara and eight shades of nail enamel.

Owners of canaries or parakeets can be supplied with a villa moderne designed in split-level brass with white enamel trim.

Cages in fact are a rage this year. They range from a hamster home, equipped with running wheel and ramp, to mesh or glass paneled terrariums for chameleons or snakes.

Glitter litter pans in metallic gold finish for cats and high-fashioned togs for either feline or canine are among others of the close to 100 exhibits.

There are mink coats for the pampered pet and simulated fur jackets for those in the middle-income bracket.

For the somber minded, coffins in a range of prices may be considered against the day when feathered, furred or finny friend must go to rest.

Shrimp eggs, guaranteed to hatch, are an entry to the aquarium world, where equipment and accessories are boundless.

The well-provided tropical fish has a heated home, his housekeeping done by filter pump, and his entertainment provided by air-operated plastic dancing jellyfish or flowering sea anemone in brilliant, non-toxic color.

Rev. Cheatham, Wife Honored In Oak Grove

The First Baptist church of Oak Grove gave a tea honoring Rev. and Mrs. J. D. Cheatham who are leaving Oak Grove for Alexandria when Rev. Cheathem will accept a position with the Baptist Message.

The recreation room of the church was decorated in yellow and white seasonal flowers as were the two tea tables. Those assisting at the tea tables were Mrs. Grady Bagwell, Mrs. D. W. McBride, Mrs. H. T. Monroe, Mrs. E. L. Thompson, Mrs. L. H. Willis, Mrs. Beatrice Morris, Mrs. Oliver Whitten. Presiding over the guest book were Mrs. Billy Roberts and Mrs. James Abernathy.

In the receiving line were Mr. McBride, Rev. and Mrs. Cheatham and Mrs. W. C. Gaston.

About 200 guests called during the appointed hours.

IN PROFUNO CASE

Jamaican Given 3-Month Term

LONDON (UPI)—Clarance Raymond Comacchio, a Jamaican linked to the Christine Keeler scandal, was handed a three-month jail term Friday for living off the immoral earnings of his 27-year-old wife, Daphne.

Comacchio was to have testified at the trial of Aloysius (Lucky) Gordon, a fellow West Indian who received a three-year prison sentence on charges of beating Miss Keeler.

Gordon, appealing his sentence, is reported to be charging now that he was framed and that Miss Keeler was actually roughed up by a white man.

Commacchio, who disappeared when the Gordon case came to trial, was granted 200 pounds ($560) bond pending an appeal.

Scotland Yard continued to gather evidence in connection with Gordon's appeal, which was expected to come up shortly. Police already have transcribed much of the tape recordings Miss Keeler made for her agent, who was getting the story of her life and loves.

A portion of the recordings allegedly contains references to the beating she suffered. The recordings also reportedly touch on Miss Keeler's affairs with John Profumo when he was war minister, Soviet assistant naval attache Eugene Ivanov and other persons so far unidentified.

Miss Keeler already has indicated she will renounce the tapes on grounds she was "high as a kite" on drugs and alcohol when she made them.

Meantime, police were searching for red-haired Ronna Ricardo, a key prosecution witness in the trial of osteopath Stephen Ward, scheduled to begin Monday.

Miss Ricardo, 23, a convicted prostitute, has been missing since Monday when she walked out of her 33-pound a week ($92) flat.

She testified at Ward's preliminary hearing, which resulted in Ward being ordered held for trial on charges of living on Miss Keeler's and other girl's immoral earnings and procuring abortions.

Duvalier Expels Naval Chief, 4 More Marines

PORT AU PRINCE, Haiti (AP) —The chief of the U.S. naval mission to Haiti and four other U.S. Marines have been ordered expelled by President Francois Duvalier's regime, it was learned Friday.

Officials gave no reason for the expulsion, but it was understood Duvalier was displeased by what the government considered unauthorized trips by the Marines into the Haitian interior.

Informed sources said the Marines had made pleasure trips by jeeps into areas they did not realize had been declared off limits because of Haiti's recent dispute with the neighboring Dominican Republic. Most of the restricted areas are near the Dominican border.

Those declared persona non grata—unwelcome—were Col. Roy Batterton, the mission chief; Capt. Don Lane of Richmond, Va., two other officers and an enlisted man. Most have already left Haiti.

PANGS OF CONSCIENCE

Student Returns Kennedy Tie Pin

WASHINGTON (AP) — It really isn't difficult to get in to see President Wennedy — partcularly if you grab his tie pin and then get pangs of conscience.

Kennedy's tie was loosened from his shirt when 2,560 exchange students from abroad mobbed him Thursday in a shoving, screaming melee on the White House lawn.

As the President tried to put the pin back in place, it was grabbed by one of the students.

The souvenir snatcher appeared without advance notice at the White House gate Friday morning and identified hemself as Bowo Soerjosoedermo, 19, of Malang, Indonesia.

The young man, known to his American friends as "Bo," offered guards the tie pin along with a note of apology to the President.

"In that exciting moment I could not handle myself correctly; without thinking any longer I took your tie pin. I apologize for what I've done to you," the note said.

A White House guard promptly called the Secret Service, which got in touch with press secretary Pierre Salinger.

As a result, Salinger escorted Bo into Kennedy's office so he could personally return the pin and offer his apology.

Kennedy shook hands with the youth, posed with him for a snapshot taken by Salinger, and gave him a gold PT-boat tie clip in return.

Bo told newsmen he recognized the tie pin as a quality product, realized the magnitude of his offense and decided to return it.

"I was afraid his wife or parents gave it to him," said Bo.

Salinger described the President's pin as gold with green stones, but said he did not know what kind of stones or where the pin came from.

The 125-pound Indonesian said he had no intention of trying to see Kennedy to return the pin. He said he planned to give it to a White House guard, "thinking the President was in Cape Cod or some place."

A white linen handkerchief also was grabbed from Kennedy's pocket during the mob scene. Bo said he knows who took it and hopes it will be returned.

The student said he hopes the incident will not discourage Kennedy from inviting exchange students study in American high schools under a program sponsored by the American Field Service.

Bo spent the past school year as a senior at Philadelphia's Hariton High School. He told Kennedy his stay was a pleasant one and he hopes to return for another visit to the United States.

While in Philadelphia, the young man lived with Dr. and Mrs. John Howard.

Scheduled to return soon to Indonesia, Bo says he wants to make some money as a mining engineer, then go into politics.

Bo Apologizes To President

WASHINGTON (AP) — Here is the text of the note of apology Bowo (Bo) Soerjosoedermo addressed to "Dear Mr. President:"

"All of the AFS (American Field Service) students are very very happy that you could meet and give a brilliant speech to us on Thursday the 18th. I am only one of 2,50 AFS students who are so anxious and exciting to meet you. In that exciting moment I could not handle myself correctly; without thinking any longer I took your tie pin. I apologize for what I've done to you and I realize that I should not do that either as an individual or as a representative of a country. I hope that this happening won't have any effect at all to the AFS students in the years to come."

Bo signed it, "Very sincerely yours."

The note was handwritten in ink.

INCREASES STOCKPILE

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The government is increasing its strategic stockpile of sperm oil, mercury and metallurgical-grade chromite. The Office of Emergency Planning (OEP) said it was increasing the stockpile for these times because they would be needed by industry in case of a conventional war.

Produce Firm Refuses To Pay, Loses License

ATLANTA (AP) — The Department of Agriculture said Friday a Detroit produce firm had lost its license to buy perishable produce because it had failed to pay a Hattiesburg, Miss., firm for a load of mixed vegetables.

The department'js Agricultural Marketing Service said Motor City Produce Co. of Detroit, operated by Joseph A. Pavone and Victor A. Ferrazza, had failed to pay Womack Bros. Produce of Hattiesburg $1,662 for a load of mixed vegetables purchased in interstate commerce.

The department said the Michigan firm did not answer the charges in the Womack complaint and that the license to operate under the Perishable Agricultural Commodities Act was suspended April 26.

The department said Motor City also failed to pay a Wisconsin firm $1,648 for a load of potatoes.

The act under which Motor City was licensed establishes a code of business conduct.

Buddhist Heads Reject Diem's Peace Offering

SAIGON, (UPI)—Buddhist leaders rejected a peace overture from President Ngo Dinh Diem Friday, promising that monks and nuns "prefer to die" rather than suffer religious persecution.

In a letter to the Roman Catholic president, the Buddhists asked the government to release all members of their sect arrested throughout the country in connection with demonstrations protesting government religious policy.

The letter, drawn up by the Buddhist Intersect Committee, asked Diem to act "effectively and frankly" to show the government's good intentions.

The government invited Buddhist leaders to meet with an interministerial committee in an effort to solve the politico-religious dispute which has split the country. But the Buddhist leaders said they did not want to enter the talks until they have received further assurances of the governments intentions.

In a broadcast Thursday night Diem issued orders aimed at ing up any suspicion and foiling any maneuvers of division' in the country.

The Buddhists, who form more than two-thirds of South Viet Nam's population, charged that Diem's efforts to solve the religious crisis were "not being obeyed by lower officials."

They pointed out that the Xa Loi, Giac Minh and An Quang pagoda were barricaded again by police Friday morning after a brief withdrawal of barbed wire.

PLANT COMPLETION

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—American Cement Corp. said Friday it will spend $10 million to complete its Crestmore plant near Riverside, Calif., by Sept. 1964. The entire project involves $21 million and the plant is to have a capacity of 4½ to 5 million barrels a year.

Reuther Warns Congress About Civil Rights Plea

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Labor leader Walter Reuther told Congress Friday that if it fails to answer Negro pleas for full citizenship, "desperate men will search for . . . answers in bitterness and bloodshed."

"The hour is much later than you realize," the red-haired president of the United Auto Workers Union told a House judiciary subcommittee.

The UAW, he said, has a "sizeable number" of Negroes.

Reuther insisted that President Kennedy's civil rights program must not be "compromised" or weakened in any way as it moves through Congress. He said it was a "very moderate bill" and that his union wanted it strengthened, if possible.

He volunteered that "I do not know how long responsible leaders of the Negro community can restrain" their followers. Congress must provide rational means of providing "equal opportunity for all our people" or "the apostles of hate will take over," he added.

As is his custom, Reuther ignored his prepared text in delivering an impassioned plea for strong civil rights legislation. He spoke off the cuff for almost an hour. Afterward, there were no hostile questions. Peter Rodino, D-N.J., as acting chairman, presided over the hearing which was attended Friday only by northern members.

U.S. Moon Struck In Race For Space

MAXWELL AIR FORCE BASE, Ala. (UPI)—Sen. Barry Goldwater said Friday that the U.S. is "moon struck" in the space race and complained that the nation "has no fully defined and effective military space program at all."

The Arizona Republican made the statements in a speech prepared for delivery before the Air Force Historical Foundation. He likened current administration military space policy to the air war policies challenged by Brig. Gen. Billy Mitchell after World War I.

Declaring that there is "a fundamental disagreement on the military role of space" Goldwater declared that administration defense planners — he called them "the most assured group of young men in recent history"—must be challenged on the issue.

The U.S., Goldwater said, has "by choice of official policy" relegated the military function of space to a secondary position.

"We have, in fact, policy declarations stating that we will not orbit weapons of mass destruction in space unless forced to do so by the hostile actions of others. In short we say that we will not utilize the military potential of space until such time as it may be too late," the Senator declared.

"By our actions," he said, "we are clearly saying that it's a race for the moon. We are moon struck."

"But while our eyes are fixed upon it, we could lose the earth or be buried in it," Goldwater said.

He contended that "space weapons are the real new frontier of defense—not the moon." He said "it is the defense of our part of this planet, not the moon, that should first concern us."

RESINS GRANTED

NEW YORK (UPI) — Heyden Newport Chemical Corp. has announced it has granted B. F. Goodrich Chemical Co. North American rights to make Heyden Newport's polyfide polyacetyl resins. The resins are designed as replacements for metals in many consumer and industrial applications.

AFTER SPACE PROGRAM

Glenn May Enter Political Field

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Astronaut hero John H. Glenn Jr. lifted his hat Friday to the possibility that he might enter politics but stopped short of tossing it into any rings.

Glenn's possible future in politics came up as an outgrowth of reports over the past several weeks that he might run in his home state of Ohio next year for the Senate seat now held by 74-year-old Sen. Stephen Young, a Democrat.

"When I leave the space program, there are several fields I may go into," Glenn told newsmen at the Capitol after testifying before a House committee. "It's possible I could go into business, with a foundation, or into politics."

This was interpreted as a hint that the Senate candidacy reports might be true. Glenn later hastily called a news conference to emphasize he had not made any plans for his post-astronaut future. He said politics was only one among the possibilities of his future career.

Glenn, the first American to orbit the earth and probably the most publicly popular of all the astronauts, said in an opening news conference statement that he wanted to make it clear he had not talked with anyone about "my possible entry into the political field."

The 42-year-old Glenn said the report that he might run for Young's seat "was as much news to me as it was to anyone." He added, however, that it was "gratifying" to know that "there are those who consider me capable in this regard."

As from now, he said he assumes he will still be in the space program next year, when the election will be held.

"I have made absolutely no commitments of any type toward any other kind of work and have continued working on the space program as before," he said.

Reports from Ohio have said that the proposal to put Glenn into the Senate race depends in part upon Young's plans. The aging senator has kept silent about his future, although he has indicated at times that he would not seek re-election.

One potential GOP candidate next year is Rep. Robert Taft Jr., son of the late senator. Glenn, a national hero since his orbital flight in February, 1962, and an articulate, personable man would be a strong and colorful candidate to oppose Taft.

Negotiators Hold Talks On Other Matters

MOSCOW (UPI) — American, British and Soviet negotiators met for more than two hours Friday and discussed "other matters of mutual interest" during the discussions aimed at reaching agreement on a limited nuclear test ban.

The Soviets ignored a warning from Communist China against negotiating with the "sinister, fraudulent" Americans. Peking also warned again that it would not be bound by any test ban agreement.

The talks are being held in secret and official conference sources would give no information on what other issues were taken up at the meeting of Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko, U.S. negotiator W. Averell Harriman and Britain's Lord Hailsham.

The fifth session of the Big Three nuclear talks came while Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev was making a major policy address at the Kremlin. Khrushchev proposed further negotiations between East and West and rebuked the Chinese Communists for their militant ideological theories.

A joint communique issued after the session Friday said only that the negotiators "continued discussions of questions relating to a test ban treaty covering tests in the atmosphere, outer space and under water and other matters of mutual interest."

Diplomatic sources speculated that the other matters might indicate that the talks would be broadened to cover other East-West issues, including Berlin.

Optimism continued high in Moscow over prospects of an American-Anglo-Soviet partial test ban agreement.

Stocks Hit New Low In 8th Setback

NEW YORK (UPI) — A battle-scarred stock market suffered its eighth consecutive setback Friday, moving to its lowest level since the first part of April.

Dow-Jones industrial average closed off 2.01 to 693.89 — the lowest level for the senior average since it closed at 690.51 on April 3. Rails dipped 0.99 but utilities rose 0.19.

Standard & Poor's 500 stock index declined 0.14 and trading totaled 3,340,000 shares compared with 3,710,000 in the previous session.

Foreign stocks led the decline for the second consecutive session. Weakness in this group began Thursday after President Kennedy requested that Congress grant a temporary new tax on American investment in foreign securities.

Among the foreign losers, Aluminium, Ltd. dropped ¾, Hudson Bay Mining 1⅛, Newmont Mining 2¼, Schlumberger 1⅛, Unilever N.V. ¾ and Hiram Walker 1¼.

Brokers noted that the week-long drift in prices has resulted from a number of bearish factors including the boost in the discount rate, the Securities & Exchange Commission's blast at Wall Street, Kennedy's tax proposal, the unsettling influences of the rail-labor dispute, an additional $50 million drop in gold stocks and another decline in short interest.

Analysts pointed out that about the only encouraging factor all week has been the large number of favorable earnings reports. The latest stock to respond to respond to this was Jones & Laughlin, up ⅝ on news that both sales and earnings for the second quarter and first half of this year were the highest since the similar 1959 periods. Other steels showed little change.

Chrysler jumped 1⅛ in an irregularly higher auto group. Among the chemicals, Du Pont dropped 1⅜, Union Carbide 1⅛, and Rohm & Haas 2¼.

Royal Dutch topped the most active list with 107,400 shares. This was followed by General Motors up ⅛, Chrysler, U.S. Smelting, and Reynolds Metals—the last of ⅞.

Reynolds Tobacco, also among the most active issues, rose ½ on higher earnings.

Prices also drifted lower on the American Exchange. Volume totaled 970,000 shares compared with 1,020,000 in the previous session. Featured on the "AMEX" were Imperial Oil off a point and Syntex up 2⅜.

BUSINESS HIGHLIGHTS

By United Press International

HOUSING STARTS

The Commerce Department Friday reported a drop in the rate of construction of private homes last month but said the number of new starts still was well ahead of June, 1962.

The department estimated new housing starts in June at an annual rate of 1.586 million units—about 6 per cent below May. But this was 11 per cent higher than the rate for June of last year.

AIRLINE LOSSES

The nation's major domestic airlines lost more than $12 million in the first five months of the year, the Air Transport Association reported Friday in Washington.This was an improvement over the corresponding period in 1962, however, when the carriers reported a net loss of $16 million.

DURABLE GOODS

Sales of durable goods manufacturers rose 1 per cent in June to a record $17.2 billion, the Commerce Department reported. It said new orders totaled $16.8 billion, down 5 per cent from May, chiefly because of a decline in stell purchases. Backlog of orders on the books of manufacturers dropped $400 million during June.

7 MILLIONTH CAR

The seven millionth 1963 model passenger car was produced Thursday, it was reported. Only once before, in 1955, was that figure reached. Sometime, next week, the 1963 model count will overtake the 1955 record of 7,130,000 units. Production this week slipped less than 2 per cent from the previous week.

CIGARETTE SALES

Two big cigarette manufacturers—R. J. Reynolds Tobacco and Liggett & Myers Tobacco—reported improved earnings for the second quarter and first half. R. J. Reynolds had record sales and earnings for the two periods. Liggett & Myers had higher earnings on lower sales for the second quarter and first half.

Mr. Goldman was formerly in business in Monroe, during the 1920's.

Other survivors are: one sister, Mrs. Fannie Korn, of New York City, and several nieces and nephews.

Interment will be in New York City.

LIVESTOCK

CHICAGO (AP) — The butcher hog market was active and strong to 25 cents a hundredweight higher Friday for a supply of 4,000 head, smallest since January.

A dozen head of unusual grade topped at $20 but most mixed No. 1s and 2s scaling 190-225 lbs moved at $19.50-19.75. The mixed 1-3 grades sold at $19-19.50 for weights up to 260 lbs and a few mixed 2s and 3s around 300 lbs at $18.25. Sows topped at $17.25.

The week's supply of 27,000 head was down 5,000 from the previous week.

Slaughter steers sold steady to 50 cents higher as the Cattle supply dropped to 4,000 head, smallest for a Friday in eight weeks.

Prime grade moved at $26.50 for a few loads of 1,250-1,325 lb weight. All weights of high choice to mostly prime were $25.50-26.25. Average choice reached $25.50 and good grade $24.

With heifers selling mostly 50 cents higher, the mixed good and choice to choice brought $23.50-25.25. Bulls were $17-19.50.

Spring slaughter lambs were steady to weak. Mixed good and choice to mixed choice and prime went at $19-22.

Practice Bomb Is Dropped In San Francisco

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A Navy practice bomb dropped on downtown Market Street during the noon rush hour Friday and bounced over an eight-story building. No one was hurt.

The 25-pound,nonexplosive missile slightly damaged two office buildings and bounced over one one of them.

Four hours after the incident the Navy acknowledged the bomb had been inadvertently dropped by a reserve pilot on a routine bombing exercise flight.

The Alameda Naval Air Station headquarters identified the pilot as Lt. R. A. Kiner, 32, of Anaheim, Calif.

Squadron ordnance personnel discovered the bomb's loss after Kiner had landed his A4A Skyhawk attack bomber following a bomb exercise flight over the Navy's auxiliary landing field at Crows Landing near Modesto.

The Navy said Kiner, unaware of the incident, could not be reached immediately because he was en route to his Anaheim home. He had completed his active duty assignment before discovery of the inadvertent bomb drop.

POTATOES

CHICAGO (AP)—(USDA) — Potatoes California long whites 5.00-5.25; Texas round reds 3.50.

GRAIN

CHICAGO (AP) — Selling pressure turned the grain futures market into general weakness from the start of trading Friday and held it that way most of the time in rather slow transactions.

The only exception was July corn which moved up more than a cent at times on short covering. However, it lost some of the advance near the close after having reached its highest level of the season.

Soybeans finished with net losses of well over a cent while declines in 1964 crop wheat amounted to more than four cents. New crop corn eased only small fractions.

Most of the weakness in wheat was understood to have been outright liquidation. Dealers said it appeared to be the trade's reaction to reports from Washington that prospects now of any congressional action on a new acreage control program for next year is very unlikely.

At the close, wheat was ¾-4½ cents a bushel lower, July $1.78¾-⅞; corn ¾ higher to ⅜ lower, July $1.30½-¾; oats ⅜-¾ lower, July 63¾ cents; rye 1-1¾ lower, July $1.24½; soybeans ⅛ higher to 1⅝ lower, July $2.59½-¼.

TOUGHEST HIGHWAY

Bloody Route 13 Is Avoided By U.S., Vietnamese

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—American military advisers here call it Bloody Route 13. They prefer to fly 3,000 feet above it in helicopters.

Vietnamese soldiers travel it only in heavily armed convoys.

Of the scores of highways snaking through South Viet Nam's Communist guerrilla-infested countryside, Route 13 is the toughest.

The narrow tar-sealed highway leads due north from Saigon to the Cambodian border. It passes sun baked paddyfields, through dark rubber plantations, and dense jungle and undergrowth.

The son of an American general and the nephew of another were killed by Communists on it last year. Lt. William F. Train Jr. and a U.S. captain died in an ambush June 16. Train's major-general father commands the war college at Carlisle, Pa. Cap. Don J. York died a month later in the same spot in another ambush. His uncle, Brig. Gen. Robert York, is advising in Viet Nam now.

Three American Special Forces men died on Route 13 in an ambush Wednesday. And two other Americans have been killed there, one two months ago when he was dragged from his smashed jeep and executed on the spot.

The toll of Vietnamese lives has been much higher. Twenty-seven Vietnamese died in the train ambush, 23 with Capt. York. Every other day, with monotonous regularity, the Saigon government reports more bloodshed on Route 13.

The highway is tough because it crosses one of the main Communist corridors in Viet Nam. Guerrillas pass it returning to their "D" zone haven north of Saigon from skirmishes in the Mekong delta. They are solidly dug in along much of the route. The vast tunnel complex in the "Iron Triangle" discovered recently adjoins the highway.

Further north of the key city of Ben Cat, 30 miles from Saigon, the Communists are known to be dug in even deeper. The government has not even tried to weed them out of there.

The anomaly of Route 13, as indeed with the rest of South Viet Nam, is that the civilian population uses it with impunity.

Crowded buses move from town to town. Bullock cars bump along with produce for market places. French plantation managers, neutrals in the present war, drive to and from Saigon. But not the military.

Gordon Praises U.S. Stand

OTTAWA (UPI)—Finance Minister Walter Gordon said Friday Canada should "be glad" the United States is taking steps to improve its international balance of payments situation although it might result in temporary unfavorable and unintentional effects in this country.

Fear that President Kennedy's plan to tax U.S. buyers of Canadian stocks and bonds would dry up the flow of U.S. capital to this country gripped Canadian investors.

The Toronto stock market crashed to its worst loss in history and financial circles were harassed with fears that Canada would have to devalue its dollar again and bring another period of tight money.

U.S. To Give Careful Study To A-Inspection Proposal

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States said Friday it would give careful study to a renewed proposal by Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev for international inspection in strategic areas on both sides of the Iron Curtain to guard against surprise attack.

In a cautious reaction to the Khrushchev revival of the plan, originally proposed by Moscow in 1958, officials here said the United States "will consult with our Allies" about this and other suggestions by the Soviet leaders to minimize the danger of war.

Some of the control posts presumably would be both in Russia and the United States. The inspectors would watch for any concentrations of troops and weapons that might constitute a threat of attack.

U.S. officials also said late Friday that Moscow talks toward a possible limited nuclear test ban were still "proceeding in a businesslike manner." There was open, though guarded, optimism that a treaty might result.

"While caution about the outcome of the negotiation is still in order," the State Department said, "we hope they will be brought to a successful conclusion."

Officials hope U.S. negotiator Averell Harriman will be back in Washington by the middle of next week with a draft of the agreement.

U.S. officials said privately that Khrushchev brought up the idea of the international control posts in conversations with Undersecretary of State Harriman, prior to the premier's Kremlin speech Friday.

The Russian leader mentioned in the plan—which has been argued without results since the Russians first proposed it with a number of strings — during a long speech Friday before a Russian - Hungarian "friendship" meeting.

The White House and the State Department both emphasized Friday that the test ban was the only issue on which Harriman could actually negotiate.

NUCLEAR TEST BANS, DISARMAMENT

Soviet Chief Again Aims At Germany, West Berlin

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

Premier Khrushchev, talking about nuclear test bans and disarmament, seems to be aiming his diplomacy once again at West Berlin and Germany.

The Soviet premier makes it all sound reasonable, but essentially there is nothing new in the proposals he made in his speech Friday in the Kremlin palace. Indeed, he has revived tired old devices used over and over by the Kremlin in attempts to push into Western Europe.

There is no good reason why Khrushchev should not agree now to some form of moratorium on nuclear testing. Militarily, both for the United States and the Soviet Union, testing no longer is of great importance.

In addition, Khrushchev might like to end the vast expense of the nuclear weapons program. He is badgered by economic difficulties at home and throughout the Communist bloc.

Possibly the Kremlin believes agreement on some sort of test ban will soften up Western opinion and bring pressure on Western governments to try for agreement on Berlin and Germany. These are high up on the list of problems carrying the threat of deep world crisis.

Khrushchev's war of words with

NEWS ANALYSIS

Red China has placed him in the position of having to prove his worth as leader of world communism. He wants to produce something without raising too much danger of a showdown crisis.

Khrushchev's speech, at a time when Soviet, U.S. and British negotiators were discussing test ban prospects, echoed 1958, when he last seriously attempted to put pressure on West Berlin. The echoes come from even farther back.

Khrushchev has proposed a pact between the Warsaw treaty nations—which Moscow dominates—and the NATO alliance. Since Communist East Germany is a Warsaw pact member, that would imply some sort of Western recognition of the East German regime.

In 1955, Foreign Minister V .M. Molotov—since disgraced—put forward something similar. He proposed a European collective security treaty as a prelude to steps toward a German settlement heavily weighted on the Soviet side. It involved withdrawal of all foreign troops, and official contacts between East and West Germany. There was no mention of free elections.

Now Khrushchev offers the collective security idea all over again, and offers exchanges of inspection teams between Western troops in West Germany and Soviet troops in East Germany. This evidently would be part of a Soviet plan for gradual disarmament. But the West is looking carefully behind its facade for indications of booby trapping.

CONSOLIDATE SHARES

PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—Shareholders of Alco Chemical Corp. are being asked to consolidate their company's shares on a one-for-six basis. President F. D. Andruss said the action recommended by the directors would reduce the number of shares to 518,000 and provide capitalization more in keeping with the company's size.
